Chest Campaign To Continue For Four Days

$118,000 DEFICIT STILL REPORTED IN CITY'S QUOTA

Volunteer Workers Unanimously Offer To Continue Efforts Until Noon on Next Friday.

2,845 MORE GIVERS THAN LAST YEAR

Average Subscriptions Have Been Smaller, However, Making Total Slightly Above 1925.

Spurred by the vision of nameless babes whose plaintive wails of hunger must go unanswered if Atlanta fails to supply the full budget of the Atlanta Community Chest, more than 400 men walked out of the Monday night report meeting at the Ansley hotel pledged to raise the remaining $118,000 of the budget from the 200,000 Atlantans who have not yet subscribed to the chest benevolence this year.

By decision of the volunteer workers themselves, the campaign will be continued until 12:30 o'clock Friday when it is hoped that the full budget of $221,000 will be reported raised.

The report showed the campaign had secured approximately $13,000 more than had been raised up to the official closing time of last year's campaign, but only $1,000 more than was secured after the deficiency campaign.

It disclosed that 2,845 more supporters for the chest had been secured to make up the additional $1,000, the $402,000 last year having been subscribed by 10,000 persons. The total is actually $118,000 short of what the agencies will have to spend during the coming year. This year they have spent $26,000 more than was subscribed, accumulating deficits of that amount to meet actual and urgent needs which could not be refused. The amount of the 1926 deficit, a similar amount to cover the same work this year, and approximately $67,000 to expand the work in proportion to the city's rapid growth in the coming year.

Black Takes Floor.

The campaign was scheduled to close Monday night. Bayne Gibson, president of the chest, said that the Voters of Georgia To Name Officials At Election Today

Chief Interest of State Election Center in Ratification of Nine Amendments to Constitution.

DEMOCRATS ONLY TICKET IN FIELD

Party Fights Enter Into General Election in Some Other Southern States Today.

Georgia's general election will be held today without a single republican candidate opposing a democratic nominee for a state or congressional position, according to a statement Monday by Secretary of State S. G. McDaniel.

Judge M. C. Tarver, of Dalton, democratic nominee for congress from the seventh district, will not be opposed for this office by Charles Adamson, republican, of Cedar town, although Mr. Adamson was nominated for the post in the seventh district republican convention. Mr. Adamson issued a statement Monday in which he declined to accept the nomination and asserted he would not oppose Judge Tarver.

It was reported that several candidates for the legislature from the northern tier of counties nominated by democrats would be opposed by republicans.

Voters will elect a governor, two United States senators, 12 congressmen, various statehouse officials, judges and members of the general assembly, ratifying the choices made at the democratic white primaries already held.

Secretary McDaniel called on all county election managers to act promptly in sending in the official returns.

Under the general election law county managers must meet at noon the day after the election, consolidate the returns and send them immediately to the secretary of state, who will compile the vote. This is of special importance in Georgia this year because of a number of constitutional amendments which are to be submitted for approval or rejection.

Nine Amendments in List.

There will be nine amendments to the state constitution submitted in the election Tuesday, three of them of general nature and six being local measures. Inasmuch as there are one or two fights being waged against some of the amendments, it is important that the election returns be sent promptly to the secretary of state, he declared Monday.

One of the amendments of a statewide nature provides that public funds can be used for compiling vital statistics and has the approval of the state board of health. A second general amendment increases the borrowing power of the governor by $3,500,000 a year, which will allow him to pay

ATLANTA BUILDING RECORD FOR YEAR SHOWS BIG GAINS

With First 10 Months of 1926 Reported, Permits Exceed Entire Total of Last Year.

Building permit totals for 1926 were pushed far in advance of last year's reports when returns from October were announced Monday by A. C. McDaniel, deputy building inspector.

There were 348 permits issued last month for buildings estimated to cost $1,079,107. This added to the total cost of buildings for the first nine months of the year brings the total to $16,488,827 as against $10,403,538 for the entire year of 1925.

Tremendous building operations this year have been signalled by numerous big projects which already are completed or are nearing completion. It also has been a banner year for residential building and in October alone permits were issued for 11 brick business buildings at an estimated cost of $240,500. This item, with the cost of single-family frame dwellings, amounted to more than the entire 11 building permit totals for October, 1925, which was $206,018.

Another big feature in last month's permits was orders for 11 brick business buildings at an estimated cost of $240,500. This item, with the cost of single-family frame dwellings, amounted to more than the entire 11 building permit totals for October, 1925, which was $206,018.

Marie Made 'War Woman' Of Sioux Tribe

Queen of Rumania is Praised for Sacrifices by Red Tomahawk.

Queen Marie's Special Train in North Dakota, November 1.—(AP)—A colorful glimpse of the old west in modern setting was afforded Queen Marie today when at Mandan she became a "war woman" of the Sioux Indians and later at Medora witnessed an old-time rodeo arranged in her honor.

The Indian ceremony and rodeo capped a day of novel experiences which began at Fargo when she took into her private car the first of a series of farmer delegations who gave her information about farming conditions.

With all the dignity and ceremony that could be crowded into the "short form" ritual of the Sioux, Queen Marie was inducted into the tribe's badge of her acceptance into the tribe. The ceremony began with a drum beat dance of braves and squaws in a circle about Queen Marie. Prince Nicolas and Princess Ileana. Then a buffalo robe was placed on the ground and Marie was directed to kneel upon it.

In the robe Marie was carried to the ceremonial place where Chief Red Tomahawk, reputed slayer of the war-time medicine man, Sitting Bull, went through the ritual of extending the fellowship of the tribe.

With the old tribesmen in the tepee were several young Indians who saw service with the A. E. F., Governor

DEATH FOR FOES OF DUCE IS CRY SWEEPING ITALY

Mussolini Must Be Protected, Even in Spite of Himself, Turati Tells 50,000.

POLICE IDENTIFY DUCE'S ASSAILANT

Communist Plot Seen in Attempt of Boy To Kill Dictator; French Consulate Attacked.

Rome, November 1.—(AP)—Death to every enemy of Mussolini was the cry that swept through Italy tonight.

It was shouted by hundreds of thousands of black shirts parading in every city and town throughout the kingdom, thundered in huge black type on the front pages of the newspapers and received the official sanction of the fascist party through the clear voice of Secretary General Turati, who spoke to 50,000 of his cohorts massed in close ranks in Colonna square under Mussolini's window here.

Mussolini himself was not there, as he had gone to Forlì with his family immediately after the attempt against his life at Bologna yesterday.

Demands Death Penalty.

"Nothing short of death will satisfy us," Turati shouted, and the huge throng answered:

"Yes, death. Hang all of them."

"The duce," Judge Turati said, "must be protected, even in spite of himself, if he is to lead the nation to victory."

"Not only those who lift their hands against our duce, but also every single person who indirectly or directly acts as instigator or accomplice must meet a similar fate—not only those who dare endanger Italy again, but those who already have done so."

The series of attempts against Mussolini, Turati declared, ruled out the possibility that they are isolated attempts of individuals, and continuing he said:

"The ring of responsibility, the center of infection, exists at home and abroad, and it must be destroyed ruthlessly. It is the duty of the government to punish those responsible to the courts, but fascism accepts the laws and the judges only on condition that their sentence be death."

"Moreover, the hour has arrived when fascism must look within its ranks for traitors; the time has come for an inspection of the virtues of every one of us."

Wait for Grand Council.

It is the duce's expressed wish that the black shirts maintain calm and

MAYOR'S SALARY MAY BE BOOSTED TO $7,500 MARK

Measure Referred To Council Committee To Raise Salary of City's Chief by $1,500.

APPROVAL IS SEEN BY COUNCIL BODIES

Retiring Mayor Walter Sims Would Not Benefit But Is Expected To Sign Measure.

If a paper introduced in city council Monday afternoon and carrying the signatures of practically every member of that body gets safely by the finance committee, city council and Mayor Walter A. Sims, Atlanta's next mayor's salary will be brought up to $7,500 yearly.

The proposal was referred to the councilmanic finance committee for its approval and no attempt was made to put it through council Monday afternoon. The present salary of the mayor is $6,000 a year. If passed, it will be the first raise in the mayor's salary since 1921, it was said Monday.

It was predicted that the resolution will meet little opposition as it carries the signature of a big majority of city council. If it passes, Mayor Sims' salary will be increased by $1,500 a year. He will receive no benefit from it for it will not be effective until January 1, 1927, when L. N. Ragdale assumes the post as mayor.

Pump Starts Clash.

Heated verbal clashes Monday afternoon featured an attempt of the fire board to purchase a new pump to be installed at station No. 20, new fire house located in the tenth ward, and although the board succeeded in forcing the paper through council, notice of motions to reconsider at the next meeting were filed.

Alderman Guy Dobbs, of the seventh, chairman of the board, championed the measure, stating that the American La France company has agreed to loan the city the equipment until next year, with the moral understanding that it is to be bought at a figure quoted at $13,000.

He stated that purchase of the apparatus is contemplated but not anticipated and that the paper was legal.

Two Mayors Approve.

Dr. C. J. Vaughan, former mayor from the fourth, and Councilman Robert F. Pennington, of the first, obtained an opinion from City Attorney James L. Mayson that reconsideration could be asked in view of the fact that expenditure of the money was contemplated, and they filed notice.

Alderman Dobbs contends that the present mayor and Mayor-elect I. N.

Woman Is Indicted On Murder Charge For Killing Mate

BATTLE IS WAGED TO CHANGE VENUE IN NORRIS TRIAL

Pastor Claims Fair Trial in Fort Worth Is Impossible; Mayor Meacham Aids Prosecution Fund.

Courtroom, Fort Worth, Texas, November 1.—(AP)—The religious-political controversy revolving about Dr. J. Frank Norris, Baptist pastor, which culminated July 17, last, in the killing of Dexter E. Chipps, Fort Worth lumberman, in the study of Norris' church, was brought into criminal district court here today as the fundamentalist minister's trial got under way.

After a day of legal jockeying, in which an application by the defense for a change of venue played the leading part, the court late in the day began to hear testimony on Norris' charge that he would be unable to obtain a free and impartial trial because of prejudice existing against him.

Shortly after the trial opened the defense moved that it be transferred to some county other than Tarrant or Dallas on the ground that Dr. Norris' numerous crusades against vice, bootleggers, Catholics and alleged corruption in government had made him many enemies here.

Combination Charged.

The application charged specifically that "a combination" composed principally of Mayor H. C. Meacham, City Manager O. C. Carr, officers of the Knights of Columbus, and other Catholics had been formed against Norris.

The application for venue change charged that these enemies created by Norris sought to obtain his conviction in this case and that they were combined to do so.

It is charged that this combination has been active in fomenting ill-will against the pastor and that Mayor Meacham has been instrumental in procuring the arrest of Norris and the hiring of special prosecutors and that the mayor and city manager had

Bank Robbers, Caught Here, Are Sentenced

Quick Justice Meted Out To Three Indianapolis Bandits Who Pleaded Guilty.

Indianapolis, Ind., 1.—(AP)—Three of the robbers who looted the Kentucky avenue branch of the Union Trust company here of $31,000 were tried, convicted and sentenced to from 10 to 21 years today after they had pleaded guilty in criminal court. The men were Paul Vernon, 22; Jean Price, 28, and Earl Vorhies, alias Wines, 38. In addition the three were fined $1,000 and costs each. Two women in the case entered pleas of not guilty.

Claude Worley, chief of detectives, told Judge James A. Collins the police had recovered approximately $20,000 of the loot. The robbery occurred seventeen days ago and the case constitutes one of the fastest workings of justice in the criminal history of Marion county.

Vernon, Price, Vorhies and one woman were arrested in Atlanta.

The three robbers and the woman were arrested in an Atlanta hotel Monday, October 25, by City Detectives L. B. Satterfield and W. B. McGee upon advice from Chattanooga police. The quartet was trailed by means of baggage checks.

The quartet filed a writ of habeas corpus but lost at a court hearing. They then waived extradition and left Atlanta last Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the custody of Inspector Claude Worley, of the Indianapolis police department. When arrested, the quartet had more than $11,000 in cash and six expensive pistols on their persons, a large quantity of expensive clothing and other valuable articles.

VICTORY CLAIMED FOR DEMOCRACY ON ELECTION EVE

Party Must Capture Nine Seats To Control Senate And Thirty To Get Majority in House.

PRESIDENT VOTES IN MASSACHUSETTS

Greatest Interest Centers in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana And Ohio Races.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.) New York, November 1.—A vast disarray of political debts and credits, the accumulation of a campaign of many unusual sides, was finally handed over tonight into the keeping of the American voter.

A nation-wide reckoning up at the polls tomorrow will determine whether the republicans are to remain in control of congress and what political flags are to fly from the mastsheads of many state governments.

The campaign passed out like a lion, but it will remain for the returns themselves to show whether the roarings of spellbinder and publicist have penetrated very deeply into the consciousness of the voter. While candidates and managers in some cases have worked themselves into a near-frenzy of enthusiasm, reports from many districts have told of a condition of near-apathy and much indecision on the part of the electorate itself.

Both Sides Claim Confidence.

Both republican and democratic leaders stood pat through election eve on their respective claims of overwhelming victory. But on their trial balance sheets both were forced to represent many important factors with an algebraic "X." The unknown quantity in one state was the pulling power of a strong personality, in another the untested strength of this or that local issue. For the best efforts of the tacticians have failed to disclose a common denominator that would put the fight on a national basis.

In many of the states the dominating local issues are interwoven directly into the pattern of the federal campaign, but in several special questions are to be voted on separately by referendum. No fewer than eight states—New York, Illinois, Wisconsin, Colorado, California, Nevada, Missouri and Montana—will vote on some features of local political problems, exploded in the closing hours of the battle. One surprise developed in Massachusetts, in the form of a charge by former Senator William H. Channing, a senatorial candidate, that the supporters of his republican opponent, Senator Butler, were buying votes at

The Morning's Greeting

When you meet a friend in the morning you say: "Good morning," and he says: "Good morning." Then you ask: "How are you?" and he replies: "Just right; how are you?" and you answer with about the same words.

How would it do to say: "Good morning; have you read The Constitution advertisements this morning?" Might just as well inquire if he is alert on watching for good bargains as to ask about his state of health or disposition.

The person who reads advertisements regularly becomes an economical buyer, and the economical buyer is the one who can always buy what he wants when he wants it, and still have money in the bank.

Results of Vote Today May Decide Third Term Ambition of President

Democrats Hope To Gain Control of Senate and Now Seem Certain To Capture at Least Four Seats.

BY SAM SMALL,
(Special Staff Correspondent.)
Washington, November 1.—All of official circles here are marking time today but are on the qui vive for results in elections of tomorrow. Republicans are sure they will hold control of congress and democrats are just as confident that at least the senate will be captured. Latest and best reports tend to confirm democratic expectation.

Good political judges say the republican campaign has been a panicky one and where not locally colored has been based on Coolidge popularity rather than on the party record of the last five years. They also say the democratic leadership of the campaign has been timid and spotty, locally opportunistic, and that had it been vigorously conducted on salient democratic principles the election tomorrow would have been a landslide in favor of the party. As it is the general result is in doubt and the betting about equal.

Pennsylvania—Vare, republican, is held by republicans. To repeat, if the republicans lose eight or more of these seats they lose control of the senate. The general judgment is that the republicans will lose a minimum of four. The question is, how many more. To lose less than four would be a republican surprise.

To put it the other way around, the important question of the campaign is whether the democrats, in the sixteen states named, or out of others, can win eight senate seats.

Effect on Prohibition.
The principal states where prohibition is strongly to the front, where dry candidates for senator are running against wet candidates, and where the outcome will affect the status of prohibition are Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, and Washington.

In New York both the republican and democratic candidates for senator are wet, but there is an independent dry candidate; and the outcome as between the democratic and republican candidates will make a difference in advantage to the wet.

New York.
Of the states in which the elections are most important clearly the first is New York.

In New York Governor Alfred E.
Smith, democrat, is running for a fourth term. His republican opponent is Congressman Ogden L. Mills. Not only another term is involved for Smith, but also his prestige, and to some degree his chances for the democratic presidential nomination in 1928.
For senator, James W. Wadsworth, republican, is running for reelection.
Wadsworth's effort is nationally important because he is the leading republican who has taken a strong stand for repeal of the prohibition amendment. Because of this action an independent republican candidate, Franklin W. Christman, put forward mainly by the Anti-Saloon league, is running against Wadsworth. Wadsworth's democratic opponent, who is also wet, is Justice Robert F. Wagner. New York also votes on a referendum, asking that congress permit the several states to authorize the sale of liquor, provided it is "not intoxicating in fact."

Massachusetts.
In Massachusetts President Cool-idge's personal and political prestige are strongly involved in a multitude of ways. The republican candidate for senator, William M. Butler, is Mr. Coolidge's personal friend and political manager. Butler is the only candidate in this election in whose behalf President Coolidge has written a letter. It is commonly inferred that President Coolidge's decision to go personally to Massachusetts on election day, instead of voting by mail, is inspired by hope to set an example which will bring out the republican vote. Senator Butler, who is chairman of the republican national committee, is running as a dry. His democratic opponent, who is wet, is an ex-senator, David I. Walsh. In this state the tariff is to some extent an issue.

Illinois.
In Illinois the democratic boss of Chicago, George Brennan, is running for senator as a pronounced wet. His republican opponent, Frank L. Smith, is a dry. Because Smith, while acting as public utility commissioner, received large campaign contributions from heads of public utility corporations there is an independent republican candidate, Hugh Magill. Brennan, the democratic candidate, also received campaign contributions from one of the same heads of public utility corporations who contributed to Smith.

Illinois also votes on a referendum for modification of national prohibition, identical with the New York one.

Indiana.
Indiana is the only state in which two senators are to be elected. The republican candidates are James E.
Watson and Arthur B. Robinson. Both have been charged with being beneficiaries of the Ku Klux Klan. The democratic candidates are Evans Woollen and Arthur Stump. All four of the candidates are dry. Partly because of the recent Ku Klux Klan revelations the chances of democratic success are believed to be higher than normal in Indiana.

Ohio.
In Ohio the republican senator, Frank B. Willis, is running for re-election. He is one of the special beneficiaries of Anti-Saloon league support. His democratic opponent, former Senator Atlee Pomerene, is mildly wet. Special interest attached to a Pomerene defeat is that he is a republican. If successful he would be a promising candidate for the next democratic presidential nomination.

Pennsylvania.
Pennsylvania presents the only case of a republican candidate for United States senator, William S. Vare, running as a wet against a democrat, William Wilson, who is dry. Because of Vare's wetness, and also because of excessive expenditures in the primary in which won the nomination, the democrats expect to poll a large vote.

Oregon.
Normally the election in Oregon would go safely to the republican candidate, but there is a democrat, Bert E. Haney. But republican strength in Oregon is impaired by the insisting of Robert N. Stanfield, a republican senator, felt he was entitled to reelection, and has made a very aggressive campaign.

The Lower House.
An entire lower house of congress will be elected, 435 in all. The make-up of the present house is:
Republicans 247
Democrats 183
Farmer-Labor 1
Socialist 2
To retain bare control of the house the republicans need 218. If the republicans lose more than 29 they will lose control. The common judgment is that the republicans are not in danger of losing the lower house.

CONGRESS CONTROL IS AT STAKE TODAY

Weller Repudiated.
In Maryland, where the wets have been maintaining neutrality between two senatorial candidates who both were supposedly anti-Prohibition, the association against the prohibition amendment suddenly repudiated Senator Weller, the republican, and threw its strength behind the democratic nominee, Milard E. Tydings.

New York's tempestuous state campaign continued its uneven course until the last and as the shouting died out the partisan Governor Smith was offering wide odds that he would be reelected, despite republican claims to the contrary. In Illinois, Ohio and all the other states where the fighting has been hand-to-hand, both sides go to the polls claiming victory.

In the national arena the most stubborn attack of the democratic "outs" the senate. Democratic leaders did not state tonight their forecast of enough democratic gains to overturn the present republican senatorial majority.

This prediction of the republican denial with every show of confidence, although they conceded privately that the customary off-year gains might be chalked up to the credit of their opponents.

Nine Seats Needed.
To capture the senate the democrats must gain nine seats now held by republicans. They figure they have 17 chances in the close states, and need only a little more than an even break to win the trick. To this the republicans answer that a turn-over of 9 senate seats would amount to a democratic landslide and that no rumblings have been directed toward control of of such a gigantic disturbance have reached republican headquarters.

It is conceded everywhere that the democrats started the campaign with certain important elements of a political victory already in their hands.
It so happens that the senators who are up for re-election this year are those who were swept into office in the Harding landslide of 1920, while the house that is standing for a renewal of its tenure was elected in the Coolidge landslide of 1924.

Of the senatorial seats, seven now are held by democrats, and all of them are in the solid south, where the democratic vote is a sure thing. Five other states, where the republican vote is a sure thing, are in the solid south, where the republican vote is a sure thing. In addition, independent republicans are in the field against regular republican nominees in New York, Illinois and Oregon, while in several other states local considerations, such as the recent Ku Klux Klan charges in Indiana, have interfered with the plans of republican managers.

Democratic Claims.
Oklahoma, Maryland, Kentucky, Arizona and Missouri are listed by the democratic dolesters as already won, although in every one of these states the republicans are claiming a narrow advantage. In addition the democrats profess high hopes of electing democratic senators in Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Illinois and Colorado and figure they have a chance in Idaho, Indiana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington. In all of these states the republicans, on the other hand, count on a margin wide enough to keep the group safely in the fold of the dominant party.

Many of the senatorial campaigns hold unusual elements of national interest. To Senator Butler in Massachusetts, President Coolidge not only broke his rule of silence but followed up a public indorsement with a trip to Northampton to lend the support of his presence and cast his vote for the republican ticket.
The reelection battle of Senator Wadsworth in New York has provided a feature second in interest only to the empire state's fight over the governorship. In Illinois the republican nominee, Frank L. Smith, has been opposed not only by the wets, but on the ground of revelations before the senatorial campaign expenditures committee. The same committee has furnished some last minute thrills in Arizona, Washington and Oregon, while the effort of former Senator Pomerene, once a democratic power in congress, to defeat Senator Willis in Ohio, has drawn the attention of the whole country.

Local Issues For House.
Like the senatorial and other state campaigns the struggle for ascendancy in the house of representatives has been waged largely on local issues. To dissolve the present republican hold on the house the democrats must take 38 seats now held by republicans. This the democratic managers hope to do by jolting loose a few districts in each of a score of states, and they count for help on the democratic swing they think they see in senatorial affairs. But they do not appear as optimistic about the house as the democratic house majority are described by the republicans as preposterous.

Nearly two-thirds of the states are to choose governors tomorrow and most of the others vote for lesser state officers. Of the whole 48, Maine alone, which has an election law peculiar to itself, will be in the "not voting" column. Its republican state officers and members of the house were reelected in September and a special election will be held later this month to fill the place of the late Senator Fernald.

The biggest "X" perhaps in all the calculations of the forecasters stands for the unknown quantity of votes that may be drawn over by republican appeals for party regularity. In Massachusetts, Kentucky and many other states, republican candidates have based their campaigns in large part on a plea that President Coolidge be assured the support of a friendly congress during the remainder of his term. In most cases, however, there has been no direct joining of the issue. When the republicans talked of Coolidge, the democrats began speaking of the tariff and taxation, although democratic efforts to make national issues of these two questions likewise have failed in most of the districts where the attempt was made.

Another unknown quantity is the prohibition question, which has figured in many places, but could not be made a national issue, because neither party could get its various component units together on the same side of the fence.

And the final element of doubt lay in the growing tendency of the voter to scratch his ballot in favor of or in opposition to strong personalities, and in disregard of party labels. The mounting popularity of this practice alone was reckoned as a factor powerful enough in many states to upset every dog's bucket.

ELECTION TO DECIDE CONTROL OF CONGRESS.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPET,
(United News Staff Correspondent.)
Washington, November 1.—In every state except Maine, the voters will go to the polls tomorrow to cast ballots in the biennial election which is of far greater consequence this year than the general indifference would indicate.

Eight states will vote on prohibition referendums. Dry leaders urge their followers not to vote in New York, Wisconsin and Illinois, claiming that the biennial election which is only express an opinion as to the merits of national prohibition and has no legal effect. They are active in Kansas, Nevada, Missouri, Montana and California, which referendums propose repeal of dry laws.
Wets have repudiated the referendum in Missouri and are somewhat lukwarm in sponsoring the referendum in the others of this last group. Nevada's referendum proposes the calling of a national constitutional convention to strike out the prohibition amendment. The others do not go beyond the expression of opinion or propose repeal of state dry laws. One-third of the voters normally are represented in these eight states.

In addition to the referendums the wet issue is conspicuous in several senatorial contests. In Illinois George Brennan, democrat, is running as a wet against Frank Smith, regular republican candidate, and Hugh Magill, independent republican. Both republicans are dry, but the Anti-Saloon league is backing Smith on the ground that he stands a better chance of winning. He has the edge in pre-voting guessing.

In Pennsylvania, Vare, republican senatorial candidate, won the nomination on a beer platform. His opponent, William X. Wilson, is bone dry, but Pennsylvania never elects democratic senators.

Coolidge.
Coolidge's future is to some extent bound up in the Massachusetts senatorial contest. He has urged the election of Senator William M. Butler, his old friend and campaign manager, and is going back home to vote by way of emphasizing his support. Former Senator David I. Walsh, an anti-Vare democrat, personally popular here, is making a hard fight. Guessing favors Butler but the result is in doubt. If the president cannot pull his closest political friend through, his prestige will suffer and rival seekers after the presidency will use his failure as a club to drive him out of the 1928 race. If he wins his strength will increase and the prospects of his running again will be more likely.

Coolidge has refused to involve himself in any phase of the election outside of Massachusetts. Some republican candidates have tried to use his refusal to declare that Coolidge needs them in Washington, but he has refused to back up such pleas of necessity.

Other Presidential Prospects.
New York involves three presidential figures. Al Smith, running for his third term, is expected to win over Representative Ogden Mills, thereby increasing his strength in the 1928 democratic national convention. His unexpected elimination now would remove him as a potential presidential candidate, and at once elevate Mills as a phenomenal vote getter and fit presidential timber. Senator Wadsworth, republican candidate for the senate, is opposed by Robert F. Wagner, Tammany democrat. Wadsworth's difficulty is accentuated by the fact that he is wet and republican dry have put up an independent republican dry candidate, Franklin W. Christian. He is expected to cut into Wadsworth's normal dry republican support vote so seriously as to make the result doubtful with Wagner the favorite. Were Wadsworth to come through this time he would be one of the foremost presidential prospects on the wet side.

Two democratic presidential prospects are involved in Ohio—Governor Vic Donahey, running for a third term, and former Senator Atlee Pome-rene, who is trying to defeat republican incumbent Willis, bone dry.
Donahey is dry, Pomerene is labelled wet by the Anti-Saloon league, though he has tried to evade the tag.

Guessing favors Willis and Donahey.
If Donahey wins, he will become a democratic presidential hope. He boasts that he never was in rural dry. Pomerene wet, opposed by railroad brotherhoods and some women's groups, would also figure as a compromise presidential prospect should he win.

THE CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1926.

of all the scientists who advocate the pasteurization of milk those of the medical branch are the most intense. Such interest is understandable, for the physician is as much interested in health retention as in the cure of disease.
Such men as Dr. Milton J. Rousseau, Dr. Charles E. North, Dr. Abraham Jacoby, Dr. John D. Robertson, Dr. Frank Monaghan, Dr. W. A. Evans, Dr. Walter R. Ramsey and Dr. Charles H. Mayo (all world famous as leaders) are among those who have expressed the strongest kind of recommendation for this modern method of protecting the milk supply.

Consider the statement of Dr. Mayo, who says: "After having studied for many years the problem of safe milk, I am of the opinion that pasteurization is the only known treatment which adequately serves the purpose for which it was intended, namely, that of destroying germ cells without materially reducing the food properties."

Pedigree Milk is the kind of milk that these men recommend. It comes from clean, well-groomed, healthy, selected herds. It comes from spotless, scoured, inspected Georgia dairies. It is pasteurized in the most modern pasteurizing plant in the South with machinery that is scalded and cleansed twice daily.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed
External treatments seldom cure Piles.
Nor do surgical operations.
The cause is inside—bad circulation.
The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.
The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.
To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—and a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.
J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. His name is Hem-Roid. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Jacobs, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.—(adv.)

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.
Rub Muterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.
As effective as the messy old mustard plaster; does the work without blister.
Muterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.
You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For real results, this old home-made remedy beats them all. Easily prepared.

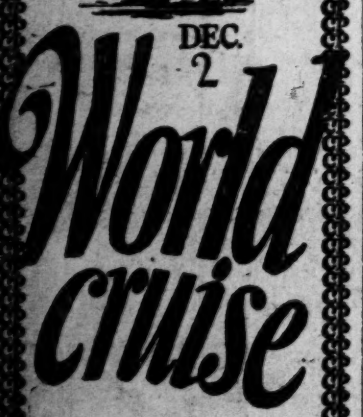

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be cured until you try this famous home-made remedy. The immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. On you can use clarified honey instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

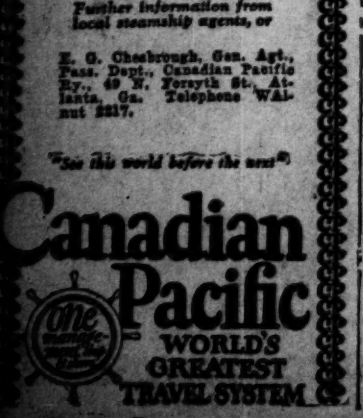

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacoli, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction, or your money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Widow of Pioneer Writes on Paper Mills in Georgia

The story of the oldest paper mill in the south—where the first paper of The Constitution was made—which appeared in the October 24 issue of The Constitution, Monday brought a letter from the widow of J. H. Land, who learned the art of making paper under James Bird—the owner of the first mill.

The ruins of the little pioneer mill still stand on the banks of Soap creek, a few miles from Marietta. The foundation of the power dam still exists as well as a covered wooden bridge, in the construction of which wooden pegs were used for nails.

"My husband," writes Mrs. Land from Austell, Ga., "learned the entire business under James Bird, during seven years of apprenticeship, after which time he was put in charge of the mill. He was then 20 years old. James Bird died, the mill passed into other hands. Mr. Land was sent to Columbus, Ga., when the war broke out. He was detailed most of his three years there and he made letter paper for the Virginia army and cartridge paper for the Western army.

"Then he went to the front for ten months and was in Savannah when Sherman's army came into the city. His company marched day and night toward Augusta. He became sick and was left by his company with his orderly sergeant, John McHaffey. They continued toward Augusta, when able to walk. He spent three weeks in a hospital and then returned to his father's home in Paulding county.

Returned After War.
"Soon after he returned to Soap creek. The mill was partly rebuilt after Sherman burned it and was then owned by a corporation, Saxon. A. Anderson being one of the stockholders. Mr. Land took charge and began improvements. After a few years Mr. Anderson bought all the stock and became sole owner. Mr. Land then continued to enlarge and improve the mill and served Mr. Anderson for 18 years.

"The covered bridge was built by Mr. Land.
"The other Georgia mill referred to was somewhere out from Atlanta and was owned by Mr. Land's brother-in-law, Tom Scully. If you will examine your files you will find on February 12, 1922, his picture and an account of his work on Soap creek.

"I am informed that Mississippi wants the honor of the first paper industry in the south. Mr. Land informed me that Cobb county's output was 10 years ahead of that mill.
"Still Has Paper Twine.
"I have a ball of paper twine made 50 years ago in the old Soap creek mill. The machine for making the twine was made to Mr. Land's order, as he and Mr. Anderson had been refused admittance to the mills in Holbrook, Mass.

"The last mill Mr. Land built in Marietta was first a flour mill. The building was bought by Mr. Anderson and the paper machinery moved from Soap creek. The rotary boiler installed in the mill was the one used in a paper mill at Bath, S. C., operated years before the war. After operating the Marietta mill three years, Mr. Land retired. About three years later the mill went into bankruptcy and thus ends the story of paper making in Cobb county."

Mr. Land was buried near Austell, Ga., Thursday, August 12, of this year. He was born in Atlanta when this city was known as Marthasville. Mrs. Land now lives at Austell.

Deer hunters of Georgia were reminded Monday by Peter S. Heavy penalties are inflicted for violation of the law and they will be rigidly enforced, according to Commissioner Twitty.

In case of ties those tied for any prize will be presented with a second puzzle, which will consist of drawing a line across the face of a chart of figures, like the accompanying chart, only larger, so that the figures thus connected when added together will total the greatest sum. If necessary this chart will be used five times, after which, should any ties remain, each contestant will receive full value of any prize tied for.

In case there are no ties on counting the Elephant no other puzzle, of course, will be presented.

First Award $2,000—Second Award $1,000, and 28 Other All Cash Awards Win $2,000 CASH—No One Has a Better Chance Than YOU

THE PROBLEM:

What is the sum total of the figures forming the elephant? Simply add them up to get the solution.

There are no marks, lines or characters in the elephant except figures. These figures range from 2 to 9, each standing alone. There are no "ones" or "ciphers." There are no groups of figures such as "23" or "42." The heads of the "6's" are distinctly curved, while the tails of the "9's" are straight, or practically so. There is no trick or illusion of any description in the chart.

General Rules of The Contest

1. All bonafide residents of Georgia and adjoining states, meaning Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, east and middle Tennessee, may take part in this contest, except employees of The Atlanta Constitution, members of their families, and those who have won first and second awards in similar contest conducted by The Constitution.
2. Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they desire, provided payment of one of the four amounts designated in the award list shall accompany each solution, but no contestant will be permitted to win more than one award. Once registered, a solution cannot be changed.
3. The Atlanta Constitution offers awards for individual effort. While it is open for members of one household to work together, no prize will be awarded for more than one of these working in a solution of the puzzle.
4. The Atlanta Constitution is to decide any questions which may arise and are not covered by the rules, and those entering the contest agree to abide by such decisions and accept them as final and conclusive.
5. All solutions must be mailed or delivered to The Atlanta Constitution office on or before 5 o'clock Saturday, November 27, 1926. Solutions sent by mail bearing postmark of date will be accepted. If rules governing name are complied with, the contest extends from Sunday, October 17, to and including Saturday, November 27, 1926. Five dollars will be given thereafter for those who have not fully qualified for the larger award in 10 days, as many awards can be reserved as there are people tied. Before any awards are awarded for less correct solutions another puzzle will be submitted to be solved. That is, if two or more people should tie on the best solution, the first two or more awards will be reserved for them, and they will be awarded in the order of the standing of their solutions of the second puzzle. If ties still result, as many as five tie-breaking puzzles will be used, after which should ties still result, each contestant will receive full value of the prize tied for.

6. This contest is open to both new and old subscribers alike. The regular subscription rate of $2.50 for three months, $5.00 for six months, $9.50 for twelve months for the daily and Sunday Constitution will prevail. Daily only subscriptions (those referred to in this contest) full amount of subscription must be refunded in every instance. When sent through an agent no commission can be deducted. In column five of prize list, six months subscriptions (those referred to in this contest) means someone who is not now taking the daily and Sunday Constitution, directly or indirectly, and not within the past sixty days, and such new six months subscriptions must be confined to Georgia or adjoining states.
7. A person who is now taking the daily and Sunday Constitution and paying the carrier or agent by the week or month may send or bring directly to The Constitution the three, six or twelve months payment with the solution. Whatever is due such carrier, dealer or agent, must be paid to him, as the remittance sent us will date from the date it is received. The carrier or agent will not be notified by The Constitution of such advance payment. If all arrears are not paid the solution will not be considered valid. Remittance on mail subscriptions will be extended for the length of time paid for from the present paid date of expiration.

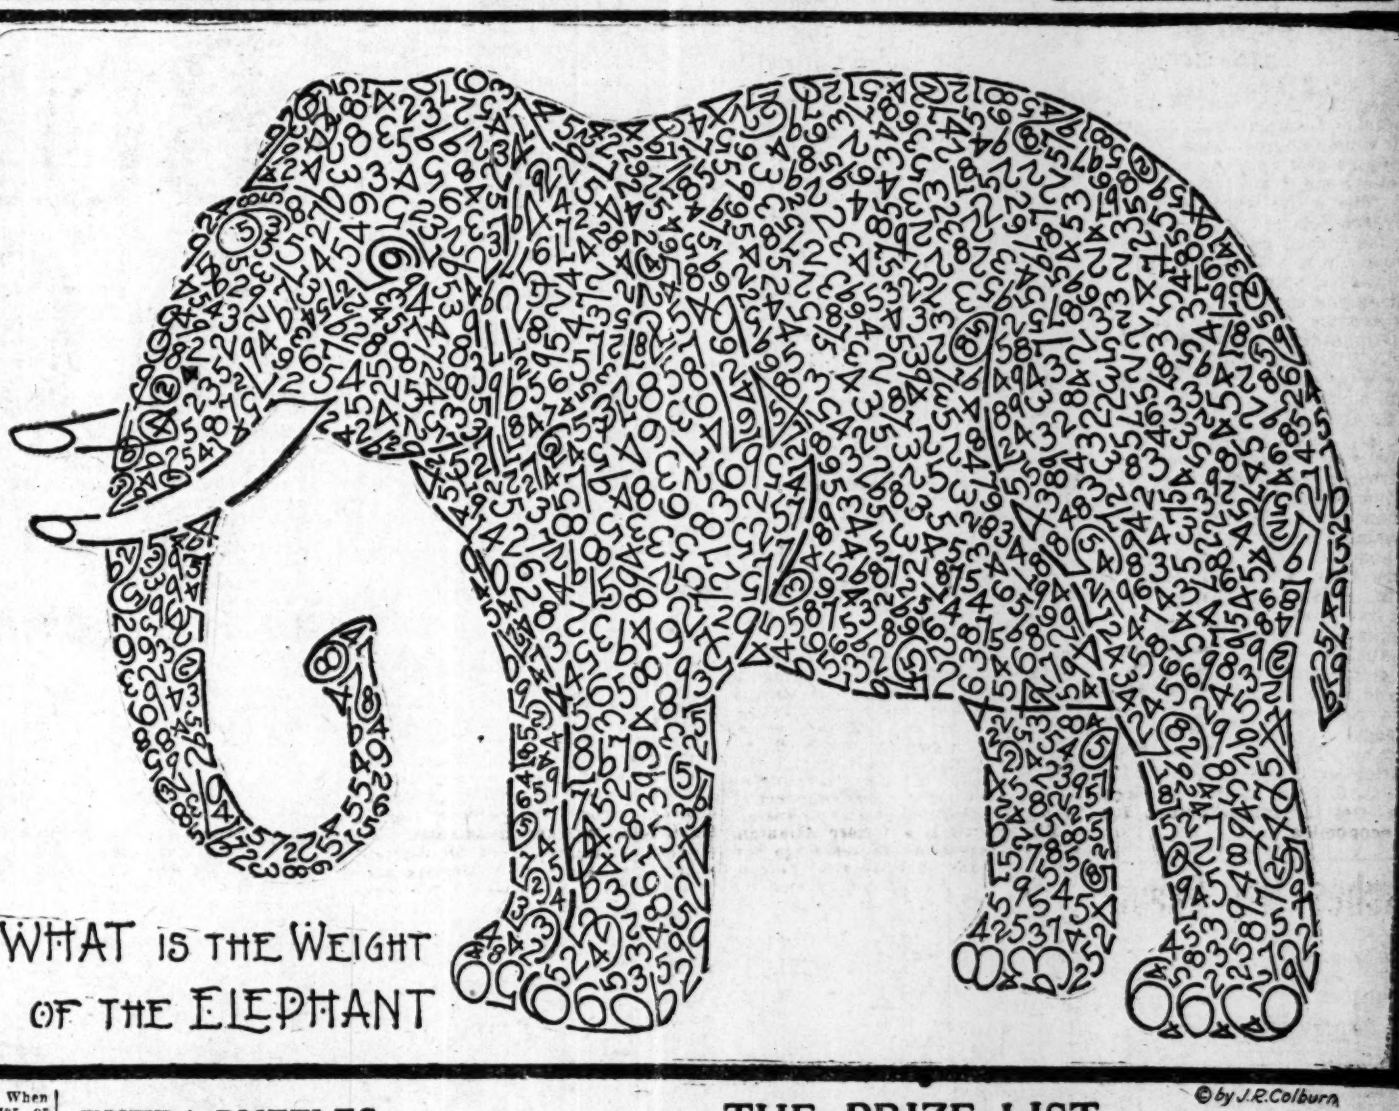

Deciding Ties—If Any
In case of ties those tied for any prize will be presented with a second puzzle, which will consist of drawing a line across the face of a chart of figures, like the accompanying chart, only larger, so that the figures thus connected when added together will total the greatest sum. If necessary this chart will be used five times, after which, should any ties remain, each contestant will receive full value of any prize tied for.

In case there are no ties on counting the Elephant no other puzzle, of course, will be presented.

Metropolitan and Society Season Start Together

Blazes Anew as Opera Opens

New York, November 1.—(AP)—Aristocrats of opera and society combined their wealth of music and fashion tonight to make the occasion again the outstanding event of the year in their respective worlds.

The spectacle, marking the simultaneous opening of the Metropolitan Opera season and the winter social season, had for its setting a background of music and fashion in America for its dazzling display of jewels, ultra fashionable gowns, opera wraps and orchids, worn by women who swelled on the Mount Everest of New York's social world.

Imperial Rome's pageantry of splendor, as presented on the stage in the opening night's opera, "The Vestal," was rivaled by the picture presented in the red plush boxes of the famous "diamond horseshoe," the age of the limousine successfully vied with the age of the chariot in sharing the interest of the great throng that filled the staid old opera house to its very doors.

The orchestra rows and the grand tier boxes also held social and artistic celebrities in such numbers as are attracted in New York by no other annual event.

High above this world of fashion and wealth, in the topmost galleries, sat representatives of another world—American girls who live in hall bedrooms, pinching and saving to carry on their vocal studies, dreaming of a day when they, perhaps, will tread the boards of the famous opera house as prima donnas; youth confident that some day they will be Verdi and Wagner's gratingly gratifying the love of music acquired in their native lands and others making up the motley life of New York.

Hundreds of standees filled every foot of standing space. For many people, it was sufficient that they could stand on the streets and see the leaders of the social world as they arrived in their limousines.

The opera itself presented a spectacle fitting for the occasion. The "Vestal" composed 121 years ago by Spontini, Italian composer, has for its setting the splendor of old Rome. Rosa Ponselle, for the second successive year, sang the leading role in an opening night's opera. Mme. Margaret Matzenauer, who appeared in last year's opening opera, "La Gioconda," also sang a major role tonight. Others in important parts were Giuseppe Lauri Volpi, Giuseppe De Luca and Elio Pinza, a new Italian. It was the beginning of the nineteenth season for Gullia Gatti Casazza as general manager.

MEMPHIS FORMS

BIG COTTON POOL

Memphis, Tenn., November 1.—(AP)—The Central Agricultural Finance corporation, with a proposed capitalization of $2,750,000, was organized here today as a step in the plan to retire the surplus bales of this year's cotton crop.

Bankers of parts of five states in the Memphis territory elected L. K. Salisbury, Memphis, cotton grower and banker, to head the company which is designed to provide a huge pool for lending to cotton growers in an effect to store 600,000 bales for a period of 18 to 20 months.

Having named six vice presidents, a board of directors and an executive committee, the conference authorized legal counsel to draw up necessary papers and make application for a charter.

A committee on subscription of capital stock will proceed at once to procure pledges from bankers and financial institutions of the territory. The conference, attended by approximately 100 bankers and planters of western Tennessee, western Kentucky, northern Mississippi, eastern Arkansas and southeastern Missouri, worked with determined enthusiasm for several hours over details of forming the relief corporation.

Under the plan sponsored by Eugene Meyer, chairman of the federal cotton commission, the stock of the corporation will be used as a basis of borrowing up to one for the immediate credit banks of the Federal Farm Loan board. Execution of the plan will make available $27,500,000 for the retirement pool.

Cotton owners who store their bales will be loaned nine cents a pound on their products, giving warehouse receipts for the bales.

Vice presidents elected were: R. E. Lee Wilson, for East Arkansas; J. T. Thomas, for the hill section of Mississippi; Calhoun Wilson, for the Mississippi delta counties; J. N. Parker, for west Tennessee; G. D. Martin, for southeast Missouri, and W. B. Moberg, for the Kentucky territory.

There were beautiful living statuary groups. There were gymnasts and trained seals and performing bears, dogs, horses, ponies, monkeys, and everything.

And there was that best part of the performance of any circus, the flying stunts on the aerial trapeze, up near the canvas roof.

All members of the circus who remained with the show for the entire season came in for their portion of the bonus money, and all salaries for the month of October were paid. The most successful season in the history of the show was announced at the closing.

Ringlings Again

Prove Advertised

Claims Are True

"The Greatest Show on Earth," played two performances in Atlanta on Monday and once again proved, to a combined audience that totaled close to 25,000 people, the truth of that claim. Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey have worked a hardship on the circus press agent, because the magnitude of their presentation leaves the choicest collection of adjectives inadequate.

Everybody knows that there are three, or four, or five, rings under the "big top." With an equally indefinite number of stages sandwiched in between. Everybody knows that it is useless to hope to see the entire show. Because if your seats happen to be midway of the tent, you can't see either end, and, if you are at one end, it takes a telescope to see an elephant at the other.

But there are enough things going on at both ends and the middle, all at the same time, so that what you don't see you never miss.

More Gorgeous Than Ever. It is, of course, the same style of show as ever. All circus performances, perforce, must be. It did seem, however, that the grand opening pageant was more gorgeous, more glittering in its costumes and more realistic in its imagery than ever before.

There were more elephants performing at one time than any other aggregation could hope to present, or than a mere human commentator could count. There were five dozen horses turning and performing at one and the same time. There were at least as many clowns stunting to laughter.

Lillian Leitner, the champion woman gymnast, did her unrivaled arm swinging. May Wirth performed more unrivaled championship stunts as a bareback rider. There was a male tight rope performer who did back and forward somersaults on the wire without any balancing device save his own arms.

There were beautiful living statuary groups. There were gymnasts and trained seals and performing bears, dogs, horses, ponies, monkeys, and everything.

And there was that best part of the performance of any circus, the flying stunts on the aerial trapeze, up near the canvas roof.

SIXTH INSTALLMENT.

On November 4, 1919, I married Jean Acker, motion picture actress, in Los Angeles. Six hours after our marriage she deserted me and went to live with a woman friend. We were together again except a month after our marriage, when she spent just one night with me and again left the next morning.

For three months I tried to persuade my wife to return to me. Then we grew estranged and meant nothing to each other. My wife was making $2000 a week. I was not at all successful financially at that time, and made less than she did.

Since we were totally estranged by March 1, 1920, I lived as a single man and waited for a year to institute an action for divorce. My wife instituted an action for separate maintenance after my success in "The

Chronic Head Colds

A Simple Method of Prevention

There is no disease more offensive or disagreeable, or no disease that will lead to as much serious trouble as catarrh or chronic colds. It often produces chronic headaches and deafness, affecting the eyes and voice, and frequently weakening the lungs. Get rid of catarrh by a simple, safe, pleasant home remedy, discovered by Dr. Blosser, a catarrh specialist.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is composed of medicinal herbs, berries and flowers, which you smoke in a small pipe or cigarette. The smoke vapor is inhaled into the nasal passages of the nose, head, throat and lungs, and carries medicine where sprays, douches and ointments cannot possibly reach. Its effect is soothing and healing, and as it contains no tobacco or cubes, is perfectly harmless, and may be used by women and children as well as men.

If you suffer with catarrh, catarrhal deafness, asthma, hay fever, bronchial irritation, or if subject to frequent colds, get from your drug store a pocket size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes. Prove for yourself their pleasant and beneficial effects.—(adv.)

CHLORFORM YEGG FOILED BY WOMAN

Lives of Mrs. H. C. Benson, of 63 West Twelfth street, and her 3-year-old son, Henry C., Jr., were endangered early Monday morning when an unidentified person sprayed a large quantity of chloroform into their room, according to reports.

Mrs. Benson, according to a report filed with police, stated that she awoke and saw the form of a person fleeing from under her window and at the same time detected the odor of chloroform.

She immediately summoned neighbors who summoned police and an investigation was started.

She told police that several attempts have been made to gain entrance to her apartment, but that this is the first time anyone has used chloroform.

The interlocking judgment of divorce was entered in my favor after a trial on March 4, 1922. I thought that I was definitely and finally divorced, but had no plan for an immediate marriage.

On May 11, 1922, I left Palm Springs, Calif., with a party consisting of my friends, Douglas Gerard, Dr. White, Paul Ivano and Miss Hudnut, known professionally as Natacha Rambova, an art director, and was of such great assistance to me during the making of "Camille" that an attachment sprang up between us.

Before our departure for Los Angeles the newspapers had made much capital of what they termed my "bigamous marriage," and there were rumors that criminal action would be taken against me.

Upon our arrival in Los Angeles I went to my home and Natacha went to her home. We did not reside together.

A conference was held with Famous Players-Lasky officials and my attorney, and they demanded that Natacha immediately proceed to New York to the home of her parents, in order that the company should not be complicated by the situation. This was not for the purpose of avoiding legal process, but simply because of what the company deemed for the best effect upon the public mind.

Mr. Clark, of the company, stated that the company would send Mrs. Valentino east and attend to all the details. My attorney objected, but was overruled by the company.

Acted Honorably. Naturally, Natacha and myself were very much distressed. We had both acted without any wrong intent whatever. The court had decided over my first wife's objections that I was justified in asking a divorce, and Natacha and myself had contracted the second marriage in the honorable spirit in which men and women usually marry.

One can well imagine our disturbed frame of mind. Natacha's grief, her desire to be left alone and to avoid contact with newspaper reporters and the probable efforts that would be made to interview her.

The company provided my wife with a ticket and a lower berth, which they changed to me, and she was compelled to make the four days' trip without any protection or any privacy, where she could hide her sorrow.

Arrives Without Money. It will be observed that by the terms of the usual movie star's contract, which should have been in my contract:

"The artists shall be furnished with first class transportation, including transportation of baggage, a compartment and tickets for himself and wife, both to and from the said city of New York, for the purpose of working in said picture when his services are to be so used."

Natacha was sent east at the instance of the company and for its sole benefit.

When Natacha arrived in New York she did not have $25 to pay her fare to Foxlair Camp in the Adirondacks. She called at the New York office of the company, and they gave her that exact amount and offered her no more, and promptly charged it against my salary. As soon as I heard of the advance to her, I sent my check to Famous Players-Lasky corporation, but found that they had already charged the item against me.

Privacy Needed. It is customary for motion picture stars and executives to take this trip in a drawing room or a compartment because they are public figures and it is recognized they must have privacy.

The brutality on the part of the company in sending Natacha east in a lower berth would be more apparent, perhaps, to one in the motion picture business, knowing conditions and practices; and the company could not get any one in the motion picture business to believe its act was due to oversight, but merely to deliberate carelessness, performed perhaps in a moment of resentment at what they deemed my foolish act with its possible bearing upon the value of my services to the company.

On her trip east Natacha was being constantly annoyed by newspaper representatives, who would not leave her in peace, notwithstanding her requests to that effect, and she was several times compelled to appeal to the conductor for protection.

On Saturday, May 20, 1922, in the forenoon, I was informed that a warrant was out for my arrest and that I would be held in $10,000 bail.

I immediately asked the company to furnish this bail to avoid my being incarcerated in jail for two nights, with resultant adverse publicity. Mr. Clark stated he had no authority to do so and declined. I did not ask for the loan of $10,000, but merely to be furnished bail to avoid bad results to both the company and myself.

The point-blank refusal to stand bail and the jail doors swung open to receive me.

MARION ALLEN ISSUES STATEMENT ON RACE

Milledgeville, Ga., November 1.—(Special).—The voters of Baldwin county will go to the polls tomorrow and find two "official ballots" to choose between, one containing the name of Marion H. Allen as the democratic nominee for the state legislature, the other bearing the name of the Rev. J. F. McCluney.

Mr. Allen, prominent Milledgeville attorney, was declared winner in the September primary by a small majority. The pastor protested, charging the casting of 131 illegal votes. After doing this, the committee sustained the protest and ordered the votes thrown out, thus making McCluney the nominee.

Mr. Allen today issued the following statement in connection with the situation:

"I received a majority of the votes in the primary, amounting to 56 in number, and the local committee has declared me the nominee four different times. On one occasion the local committee stayed in session practically all day and all night in order to recount the ballots and throw out the certain alleged illegal ballots. After doing this I had a majority of one vote."

"The committee in making the recount had the tax collector of Baldwin county present, together with his books, and every alleged illegal vote was eliminated from the box. In addition to the alleged illegal votes specified by Mr. McCluney the local committee saw fit and proper to eliminate six other votes. These votes were eliminated on the ground that the voters had not paid their taxes. The committee had before them an affidavit of the tax collector showing that these votes were illegal. I think that any fair minded man will agree with me that these votes should be thrown out, if those alleged by Mr. McCluney were not thrown out."

"After declaring me the nominee by one vote Mr. McCluney carried this matter again to the state committee and the voters of Baldwin county. He would they permit me to amend my answer and specify these illegal votes. Under every rule of law, good morals, or the rights of the citizen, the votes have been permitted to have specified these six illegal votes and they should have been thrown out. The state executive committee should have ordered the local committee to throw these six votes out irrespective of any specification on my part."

"Commenting editorially on the unusual situation in connection with the legislative race, the Milledgeville Union-Recorder in its last issue declares:

"The question that will be decided is whether a majority of the voters of Baldwin county will support the democratic committee shall name the candidate or whether a subcommittee of the state democratic committee shall name him."

90 CARS BANANAS DOCK AT SOUTHERN RAILWAY WHARF

With the arrival Monday of the United Fruit company steamship San Bruno from Puerto Castillo, Honduras, which docked at the Southern railway's pier No. 2 with a cargo of 30,000 bunches—90 cars—of bananas, Charleston becomes the port of entry for these and other imported fruits to be distributed throughout the South Atlantic states and into territory as far west as the Ohio river.

In anticipation of the new movement through Charleston, the Southern railway rehabilitated the pier and dredged the channel to a depth of 75 feet. The United Fruit company will install machinery to be used in moving bananas from the ship to cars. Arrangements have been made for special refrigerator car service on fast freight schedules to be operated by the Southern.

One banana ship will reach Charleston each week, which, in addition to increasing the port's inbound tonnage, will provide regular schedules for exports to Central American and West Indian ports. By bringing bananas through Charleston, the United Fruit company expects to secure improved service to the entire South Atlantic territory.

Trio Indicted.

An indictment charging a statutory offense was returned Monday by the Fulton county grand jury against Russell Daniel, Frank Gettling and Albert Crow, three white youths, as the result of an alleged attack upon a 13-year-old girl Saturday night on the banks of the Chattahoochee river.

Wats' Writings Will Be Handled By New Company

Organization of a company to place on the market the writings of the late United States Senator Thomas E. Watson, to be known as the Tom Watson Book company, with headquarters at Thomson, McDuffie county, the former home of the senator, has been perfected, it was announced Monday at the capital.

The granddaughter of the late senator, Mrs. Georgia Lee Brown, owner of Watson copyrights, controls the majority stock in the new company. Mr. Watson wrote "The Story of France," "Life of Napoleon" and numerous other works of recognized high literary merit. The company also will republish many of the minor books and pamphlets written by Mr. Watson.

In announcing the organization of the new company the following was made public concerning the public life of Watson:

"During his lifetime the 'Sage of Hickory Hill,' as he was known to many, encountered many friends and enemies, but never did anybody. After the fact that he was dealing with a man who held a commanding place among the south's greatest statesmen, orators, and authors, and was one of the nation's most brilliant intellects."

"As a candidate for president and vice president of the United States, he made a deep impression in every section of the country by his oratorical ability and intellectual powers. As the originator of rural free delivery of mails, he is known in the most isolated parts of our country. His constructive work in both the house and senate at Washington, together with his famous literary writings has reared to his fame a majestic monument that will endure forever."

IRATE ORDINARY GIVES M'LENDON "BAWLING OUT"

The secretary of state got a "bawling out" Monday from the ordinary in one of the Georgia counties for failure to furnish that county with ballots for the general state election today.

Apparently unaware of the law's provision that the ordinary prepares the ballots for an election, the county official wired the secretary of state the following:

"I have got the blanks for holding the election but haven't received the tickets. Send them down right away." With but one day to get the ballots printed, it is expected that voters will have to use a blotter on the ballots in that county tomorrow before they mark them, attaches in the secretary of state's office is rated.

NAVAL ENSIGN DIES INSTANTLY IN PLANE CRASH

Pensacola, Fla., November 1.—(AP) Ensign Henry Harrison, U. S. N., a member of the navy air station class of 1925, was instantly killed here this afternoon when he leaped from an airplane and plunged into the waters of the bay. It was Harrison's second solo flight. Observers at the air station stated Harrison's plane went into a nose dive and was flying upside down when the aviator leaped. Harrison and the plane struck the water at approximately the same time. The body was recovered.

Harrison was 25 years old. His home was in Cambridge, Mass.

and apparent prosperity of the city, which has come to pass since his last visit in 1918.

"The opportune evidence that the south and Georgia are in the midst of the best things in their favor," Mr. Shepard said. "This will give greater independence from the whims of a season and necessarily result in greater courage to push forward."

Mr. Shepard came to Atlanta with the Appalachian highway motorcade and was enthusiastic in his praise of the natural scenery between Asheville and Atlanta, which he declared was among the most beautiful in all the country.

"People of Georgia who are opposing this amendment," Mr. Harris said, "certainly are not fully acquainted with the facts. Crisp county wants only to handle its own power and lighting plant. We can do it by voting sufficient bonds, county bonds, which no taxpayer or other citizen will feel except those in our own county."

"We have a wonderful power site on the Flint river and we propose to harness that river and furnish cheap current to Cordele and other towns an ultimately to every farm home in the county. We then will not be dependent upon outside power, capital and plants. We will have our own plant. We will build it with our money and we will use the revenue to pay off county debts and lower taxation in Crisp county."

"Citizens of Crisp want it; we are the only ones who will pay for it. If a Georgia citizen is to be independent of other counties, he must be independent of the state. Crisp county only is interested in the improvement of its own opportunities, other counties should at least consent to it when it has no bearing on any county except the one involved."

"There has been a campaign of misrepresentation in the state, trying to appeal to ignorance and leaving voters about the facts and leaving the impression that all taxpayers of Georgia will be interested. This is wholly untrue. Crisp county only is interested and we want it and are only asking other voters' consent to improve our affairs."

Senator McKenzie, well known in Georgia for many years, president of the Cordele Kiwanis club and interested in Crisp county affairs for many years, accompanied Colonel Harris to Atlanta. He is enthusiastic over the good results that will follow development of such a power plant in Crisp. "Every citizen, every farm, every home, every phase of our business will be bettered by such a project," Senator McKenzie said.

Plan For Control. According to Senator McKenzie and Colonel Harris, Crisp county bonds would be sold to build the huge plant, then power and light would be sold at a minimum price to pay off some of the long period of years the debt incurred. After retirement of bonds the revenue would go into building schools, good roads, lowering taxation and other wise benefiting the county.

Under the proposed amendment which voters will decide upon today, the Crisp county board of commissioners of three members, and four persons to be selected by the grand jury each two years, will compose the board of control of the power project and will build and operate it.

The Crisp voters said that only in certain sections was there opposition to the plan and that apparently no opposition had developed through "misinformation or ignorance of the real facts," as Colonel Harris expressed it.

VOTERS' AID ASKED BY CRISP CITIZENS

Declaring the "campaign of misrepresentation" against the proposal and calling upon Georgia voters today to support the amendment which will enable Crisp county to build and own its power and lighting facilities, Senator C. Mrs. Bradley Headed List In Women's City Tournament

Woman Star Shoots 94 To Lead Field In Golf Tournament

Mrs. T. T. Williams Is Runner-up With 100 for Qualifying Round Over East Lake Course—Slow Course Scores to High Marks—First Matches at 9 O'clock This Morning.

Mrs. Clarence Bradley, of Ansley Park Golf club, one of the leading women golfers of Atlanta and winner of many local tournaments, won the low medalist trophy in the qualifying round of the eighth annual city golf championship tournament sponsored by the Atlanta Woman's Golf association being played over the East Lake course, Monday.

After taking a 40 on the out nine holes, Mrs. Bradley came into her own on the last half of the round and came in with a 45 for the last nine holes to bring her score to 94 to win the medalist honors. She held a lead of six strokes over her nearest rival, Mrs. T. T. Williams, who turned in an even 100 for her qualifying round.

Mrs. Bradley got off to a bad start but soon found her game. However, she was not quite up to her standard. On the first nine holes Mrs. Bradley had two seven and as many sixes. She was unable to get started on the out nine, but coming in she shot a much better brand of golf than on the initial half of the 18 holes.

Mrs. Bradley's card:

In 944 555 703-45-94

Helena Dargan Lowndes, defending champion, was also off her game, taking 101 for the 18 holes of qualifying. She fell way below expectations. The difficult course, with unfavorable weather aided in running the scores above the 100 mark.

Six new members of the Atlanta Women's Golf association are striving for honors among the leaders of the association. Miss Maddox is the outstanding addition to the list of women golfers. She only started the famous old game last year but has improved her game so rapidly that she is now a championship contender.

Miss Maddox led the field on the first nine holes with a 45 and was expected to come through with the low score, but on the last nine she found quite a bit of trouble and her lead when Mrs. Bradley hit her stride and copied the honors.

Most of the favorites found trouble on the slow course than had been expected. Mrs. T. T. Williams and Mrs. Helen Beck turned in 101 for their qualifying scores, while Mrs. J. E. Jague had 108, Mrs. Tom Paine 109, Mrs. Smith, 111.

DOUG WYCOFF BIG TEN TITLE RACE BEGINS OF PRO TEAM IN EARNEST

Newark, N. J., November 1.—(AP)—An unusual galaxy of all-around college stars has been contributed by the south to the 1926 lineup of the Newark eleven of the American Professional Football league.

The team is captained by "Doug" Wycoff, of Little Rock, Ark., a four-letter man at Georgia Tech. Wycoff, who is independently wealthy, says he plays "for the love of the game."

J. D. Brewster, of Georgia Tech, and A. H. Maurer, of Oglethorpe, are "ten second men" and two of the fastest backs in professional football. Bob Newton, halfback, was captain of the track team at the University of Florida and holds the Bishop Berry trophy for winning the Southern A. A. U. pentathlon championship for three straight years.

R. G. King, of Kentucky, a base-ball and basketball star, gained distinction by registering three 80-yard goals in one game. A. F. Rives, of Vanderbilt, Ivan Williams, of Georgia Tech, and E. M. Goldstein, of Florida, are other southern players on the Newark roster.

BIG 3 TEAMS WORKING HARD FOR BIG GAME

New York, November 1.—(AP)—Harvard and Princeton are girding themselves this week for the opening engagement of as wide open battle as has ever been promised for the championship of the "Big Three."

There will be no lack of traditional color and interest in the 1926 round robin of the ancient eastern triumvirate that starts Saturday at Cambridge, but it is noteworthy that all three enter their climax games defeated and shunted aside in the main fight for sectional honors for the second straight year.

Yale and Harvard each has tasted defeat twice, while Princeton has been beaten and tied—a record of disaster that probably has had few, if any, parallels in "Big Three" history.

It has been eleven years since Harvard carried off the "Big Three" crown outright. Eddie Mahan's 1915 Crimson team was the last to reach the peak, and it made a good job of it by smothering Yale 41 to 0. Twice since then—in 1919 and 1920—ties with Princeton have kept Harvard from regaining the title.

Remembers Previous Games.
Harvard has the memory of two successive defeats against Princeton to console it. In the last two games the Tigers have rolled up points against the Crimson. Not even a triumph over Yale could be any consolation to a decisive victory this Saturday over Princeton.

The pairings for the first round of match play starts this morning at 9 o'clock follow:

Championship Flight.
Mrs. Bradley vs. Miss Maddox.
Mrs. Helen Dargan Lowndes vs. Mrs. Tom Paine.

Second Flight.
Mrs. R. H. Beck vs. Mrs. A. Guy Smith.
Mrs. L. Warren Granade vs. Mrs. Van Williamson.

Third Flight.
Mrs. W. D. Doak vs. Miss Martha Bell.
Mrs. O'Brien vs. Miss Claude Williamson.

Fourth Flight.
Miss Douglas Paine vs. Mrs. Harrie Ansley.

Qualifying scores in the championship flight: Mrs. Bradley, 94; Mrs. T. T. Williams, 100; Mrs. Lowndes, 101; Mrs. Beck, 101; Miss Maddox, 102; Mrs. Jague, 108; Mrs. Paine, 109; Mrs. Smith, 111.

While the "Big Three" are having their "private fight," the chief contenders for the eastern sectional crown will take matters comparatively easy this week in preparation for the tests. Army and Navy, now dominating the battle, should not be seriously extended by this Saturday's foe, Franklin and Marshall.

West Virginia Wesleyan, respectively. Brown's "iron men" expect a let-up in their game with Norwich, while Lafayette is not likely to have trouble keeping its unbeaten slate clean against Rutgers.

Boston College, New York University and Holy Cross, however, three other unbeaten arrays, are expected to give Harvard a hard time. Harvard's rugged Villanova eleven tackles Boston, Fordham invades Worcester to meet Holy Cross, while Carnegie, which upset Pittsburg, comes here to attempt to break the sensational winning streak of Chick Meahan's N. Y. U. outfit.

Chicago, November 1.—(AP)—The tumult of intercollegiate strife died to night on western conference grid-irons, and the teams knuckled down to the serious business of serving themselves niches in the final conference standings.

Every big ten team has played its last game of the 1926, and next Saturday's efforts will be given to conference engagements with two exceptions. Indiana plays Notre Dame and Ohio State plays Northwestern.

Illinois, which showed with its victory over Pennsylvania, a team developing fast into a major threat to the conference leadership, headed for Chicago. The Illini probably cannot put themselves in title position now, but they can make the going rough for some surviving aspirants.

Michigan, stunned by its loss to Navy, practiced without Friedman for the Wisconsin game at Ann Arbor Saturday. Friedman's leg was wrenched in the midday game, but he expects to be back in a few days.

Northwestern, after its second victory over Indiana Saturday, found itself at the stage where it must prove its ability to win from somebody besides the Hoosiers if it is to be crowned conference champion.

The Wild Cats foresee a clear title for themselves if Ohio State takes Michigan's measure and then falls before the improving Illini, but this demands victories of Northwestern over Purdue, Chicago and Iowa on successive week-ends.

Minnesota, both heartened by its conquest of the Badgers, worked tonight for the homecoming game with Iowa at Iowa City.

Notre Dame will pursue against Indiana the same under-cover attack which quelled Georgia Tech, with the hope of winning without displaying any of the tricks Rockne is developing for the Army game a fortnight hence.

Ohio State, with an open date, worked tonight with vigor for the Michigan contest on which all the Buckeye hopes for a big ten title are pinned.

CITADEL NEXT ON SCHEDULE FOR PETRELS

BY ALTON REDFERN.
The Oglethorpe Petrels, feeling unusually happy over their victory over Furman, went to work again Monday afternoon on Hermance field to prepare for the Citadel—another South Carolina eleven and incidentally another big stumbling block between the Petrels and their third consecutive championship.

The Birds still have the Citadel, Mercer, Centenary and Presbyterian college to dispose of before being crowned champions again. These teams will be met in the order named, and are without a doubt, some of the best teams in the S. I. A. A. If the Petrels can win from these teams, then their superiority will be practically indisputable. Coach Harry Robertson, however, started the ball to rolling again yesterday, for he is out to give Oglethorpe its third title in as many years.

The Birds have a very impressive record thus far, having defeated several S. I. A. A. teams and South Carolina, a conference member. Coach Homer Clyde Chestnut, Petrel scout de luxe, seems to think that Citadel has one of the best lines in the south. He said that it was far superior to that of Furman's. He especially mentioned a Mr. Weeks in the Citadel backfield, and he said that he never misses a field goal within the 50-yard line.

But in the meantime it will be a very wise idea for the Citadel grid-irons to look out for Campbell, Bell and Company. These gridiron heroes are feeling fine and fit, having suffered no injuries in the Furman clash and are now seeking some more South Carolina "meat." In fact, the Bird squad as a whole is in better physical condition than at any time this year.

Of course, there are a few players who are suffering with terrible sore spots, but by Saturday everything will be O. K. unless further injuries crop out of the workouts this week.

The workout yesterday afternoon consisted entirely in signal drills. It lasted for a few minutes and there was plenty of life shown as the boys ran the signals. Just before the close of the practice Coach Robertson gave them a short talk concerning the week's program.

He intimated that the work this week would be exactly the opposite of that of last week. The program last week was mostly defensive work. Coach Robertson was, however, satisfied with the conditioning of his team. He said that the team's defensive line last Saturday against Furman, and now it is the offense which needs the brushing up. To it is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to cure can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunions you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacy and apply it night and morning as directed to the engaged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy will sell you Jacobs' Pharmacy Co. sells lots of it.—(adv.)

18 Conference Teams Prepare For Battles

With the approach of the deciding games for the 1926 leadership of the Southern conference Saturday, 18 gridiron eleven plunged into intensive practice this week for nine conference encounters.

In addition, Maryland is to meet Yale in intercollegiate combat and three members go outside the conference for games. Kentucky journeys to Birmingham in an effort to stem the victorious Crimson Tide of Alabama, leading the conference this week with five wins and no losses.

Tennessee, chief threat to Alabama's third successive southern grid title, with three victories and an unscathed record, goes against the strong Sewanee aggregation, whose most notable feat this season was the holding of Alabama to a 2-to-0 score.

Georgia's Bulldogs are scheduled for a clash with Auburn, Georgia Tech's Golden Tornado comes to grips with Vanderbilt's Commodores, and the Green Wave, of Tulane, will be host to the Mississippi Aggies.

In other conference encounters, North Carolina meets Virginia Military Institute, Virginia Poly and South Carolina come to grips in Richmond, Washington and Lee takes on the University of Virginia and Clemson and Florida play in Alligator ten, Maryland meets Yale at New Haven in the feature cross-country clash of the week.

North Carolina State encounters a non-conference opponent in Lenoir Rhyne, and Mississippi plays Southwestern university and Louisiana State meets the University of Arkansas in other non-conference tests.

Woodruff Fires 18 Men From Bulldog Varsity Squad

Smith, Luckie, Huff, Shiver and McCrary Are Among Suspended

Incorrigibility and Breaking Training Rules Are Reasons Given for Coach's House-Cleaning—Conference Chances Are Probably Ruined.

ATLANTA, Ga., November 1.—(By the Associated Press.) Eighteen members of the University of Georgia's first string football squad were suspended from the team today for violation of training rules.

The men violated training rules during homecoming day at the university last Saturday, Coach Woodruff announced. He said it had not been decided whether they would participate in any further games this season.

Among the charges against the players were late hours, "incorrigibility," and refusal to comply with training rules, Coach Woodruff said.

Their suspension is regarded as a serious blow to Georgia's southern conference aspirations this season.

Georgia has won two and lost one conference game this season. Florida and Virginia suffered defeats at Georgia's hands, while Vanderbilt won a close struggle, 14 to 13.

In its only intercollegiate game this year, Georgia lost to Yale, 19 to 0.

The suspension order came as the Bulldogs were starting another week of training for Auburn next Saturday in one of the leading conference games. Georgia Tech is on its schedule for the following Saturday. In the second game between the two schools in several years.

Upon making the announcement of the suspensions Coach Woodruff said the men were out "indefinitely."

All of the men suspended were of the first string varsity and it is known their absence will severely hamper the squad. Following are those suspended and their status:

Chuck Shiver, second-year halfback. Curtis Luckie, considered one of the best tackles in the south. Ben Morris, center, second-year varsity man.

Olin Huff, second-year varsity. V. H. Bryant, first-year varsity. Roy Groves, first-year sub-linebacker. Roy Jacobsen, first-year sub-linebacker.

Red Eubanks, sensational Tennessee linebacker. Ollis Dowles, first year on varsity. H. Morris, first-year varsity. Blackshear Smith, center on varsity for last three years.

G. Smith, second-year linebacker. Rob McFigue, varsity halfback for last two years.

Cornett, first-year varsity man. Roy Estes, second-year varsity man. Frank Fleming, second-year varsity man.

Red Smith, second-year varsity man.

SWEDE LOSES TO GORMAN ON FOUL BLOW

New York, November 1.—(AP)—Bud Gorman, of Kenosha, Wis., won on a foul from Harry Persson, of Sweden, in the fifth round of a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight. Referee Jimmy Crowley disqualified Persson for hitting low after he had warned the Swedish boxer in earlier rounds. Persson weighed 200 1/2 pounds and Gorman a half-pound less.

The bout which was the final of the card of four 10-round matches, was not exciting in the first four rounds. The fifth had continued for one minute and 55 seconds when Persson was sent to his corner. In the boxing during the first four rounds Persson had an edge.

Pete Herman Loses Bout With Law

New Orleans, November 1.—(United Press.)—Pete Herman, who once was bantamweight champion of the world, and who fought them all until blindness caused his retirement from the ring, once more has fallen afoul of the one law for which he never had respect—that concerning prohibition.

The former boxer just finished serving a 90-day sentence for violation of the liquor law when New Orleans police got wind of a new establishment under the management of the Gullotta boys, Pete and his brother.

Following a secret passage, the raiders came to a gay cabaret, but found no liquor. After a search they found some mysterious levers. When these were pressed, a section of the wall opened and admitted them to an adjoining room. Still no liquor.

Behind a small bar was an electric button. When this was touched a trap door opened and a platform, electrically operated, brought to view a gleaming array of bottles, absinthe, gin, whisky and liquors.

Crusader Takes Three-Year Title

New York, November 1.—(AP)—The mighty Crusader, heavy favorite, clinched his title as king of the 3-year-olds today by romping away with the Riggs handicap, mile and a half feature of the opening day at Pimlico.

The Man-o-War colt, packed top weight, 130 pounds, in bringing home the $25,000 stake in 2:32.3-5, two lengths ahead of Mars. Gaffsman was third. Earl Stude rode Crusader.

No races were scheduled at Junes today. Four jockeys, J. Sylvia, C. Trippie, T. Wilson and G. Owen, were suspended for disobedience at the post and Sylvia was fined $50 for unnecessary roughness.

Europeans Follow Persson Closely

New York, November 1.—(United Press.)—Not for five years, since the halloo for Georges Carpentier was at its height, has a European boxer aroused so much interest among sportsmen of the old world as Harry Persson, the tattooed Swede heavyweight.

Blow by blow descriptions of Persson's bout with Bud Gorman at Madison Square Garden, led to a record-breaking attendance.

TECHSTERS IN ACTION

With Arctic circle blasts making silk pants too effeminate for comfort, Notre Dame defeated Georgia Tech, 12-0, at South Bend Saturday and here are a couple of scenes of the defeat. The top photo shows Carter Barron, the plunging brilliant halfback of the Georgia outfit, who earned a tribute from Knute Rockne, as he plunged through the line for a 40-yard gain, and the bottom shows O'Boyle, the gentleman from Rockne's camp that played havoc with the Tech line in the first and second periods, in one of his stand-raising dashes. He gained 21 yards on this play.

$75,000 Purse

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and Chicago Tribune.)

Chicago, Ill., November 1.—Strangler Lewis, headlock wrestling demon, had $75,000 dangled before his eyes today, a bid for him to come to this city and grapple with Joe Stecher in a championship match. Doc Krone, veteran promoter, is trying to arrange the match to decide the heavyweight championship of the world.

The Lewis-Stecher affair has been hanging fire for some time. The promoter was to have clashed with Joe on the coast, but broke an arm in training and the match was called off. There is unusual interest hereabouts and the gate receipts would be heavy, hence the efforts by Doc Krone to take the match away from coast promoters.

This is the largest offer ever made for a wrestling match.

German Writers Award Ribbons

Berlin, November 1.—(United Press.)—A union of German sports writers has awarded its customary gold ribbons for 1932 to the three outstanding teutonic athletic stars of the year.

Dr. Otto Peltzer, who holds four world records and is generally recognized as the greatest middle distance runner of the year, heads the list.

Otto Schmidt, the first German jockey to ride 100 winners, received a gold ribbon, while the third went to Ernest Vierkotter, the first German to swim the English channel.

GEORGETOWN HOLDS LEAD IN S. I. A. A.

Georgetown College, leading contender for the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association title, with three wins and no defeats, according to revised figures compiled Monday by The Associated Press, goes outside the association boundaries Saturday for a tussle with Maryville, while 14 association teams battle among themselves to better their standings.

One intercollegiate game is on the schedule, the Praying Colonels of Centre making Lansing, Mich., their battleground, where they will meet the Michigan Argies.

Citadel, conquerors of the South Carolina Gamecock last week, will meet the Oglethorpe Petrels at Charleston. Both the Petrels, with two wins, one loss and a tie, and the Citadel with four victories and one defeat, are contenders for leadership honors.

Furman and Mercer will do battle at Greenville, S. C., and Mississippi's Majors and Louisiana College will furnish entertainment at Athletic park in Jackson, Miss. Mississippi college's Choctaws are to attempt to hand Birmingham-Southern its first association defeat, at Clinton. Chattanooga is host to the Howard Bulldogs at Chattanooga and Southwestern of Louisiana and Louisiana Polytechnic meet at Lafayette in a game that will have a bearing on the Louisiana State championship standing.

Union goes outside the association for a tilt with the West Tennessee Teachers at Jackson, Tenn., and Transylvania will meet another outsider in Oglethorpe at Bowling Green.

Stetson College and Southern College are scheduled for a meeting at Deland.

Two other Kentucky entries in the association meet outsiders when Kentucky goes to Big Stone Gap, Va., to meet Emory and Henry and Louisville entertains the West Kentucky Normal, at Louisville.

Crusader Winner Of Riggs Feature

Baltimore, November 1.—(AP)—Crusader won the inaugural running of the Riggs handicap for 3-year-olds a mile and a half, the $25,000 feature of the opening of the Pimlico fall meeting today. The Riggs handicap is a memorial to the late William P. Riggs, for many years secretary of the Maryland Jockey club, the oldest turf organization in Maryland. Mars was second and Gaffsman third.

W. Virginia Team Minus Two Stars

Morgantown, W. Va., November 1.—(AP)—When West Virginia university football team takes the field against its traditional foe, the University of Pittsburgh, next Saturday, Morrison and Lewis, regular quarterback and tackle, respectively, probably will be missing from the lineup. Morrison is suffering from a severe "charley horse," while Lewis was injured in the game with Missouri Saturday and is believed to have suffered a fractured rib.

Daviscourt-Londos Match Seems Sure

The controversy involving Jimmy Londos on one side and John Contos and Dick Davis on the other was still raging Monday, with the latter two having scored a point in the last 22 hours, with the announcement by the promoter that Londos, temporarily halted in his efforts to have his own officiate, had partially backed down and he believed it likely that he could force him into accepting a local referee.

Even now, however, the match is not closed, for the Greek champion, writing from Detroit, still insists that he must have a safeguard against Daviscourt's rough tactics and that if he cannot bring his own referee, he will at least insist upon the Californian posting a forfeit insuring a clean match.

"I will not wrestle at all unless Daviscourt posts good-sized forfeit to wrestle cleanly," was the message from the veteran Hellenic star.

Promoter Contos next wired Daviscourt in St. Louis that Londos continued to balk and insisted upon a forfeit, after which the American grappler fired a reply that he would post no money, that he would not allow the Greek to have his own referee and that if these terms were not satisfactory that the bout was off, as far as he was concerned.

And there the matter stands, with Contos tearing his hair in an effort to close this, one of the greatest attractions he could possibly stage here now, with Daviscourt, a wonderful conquer because of his series of victories, and Londos, one of the few men in the business who stands a chance of conquering "Diamond Dick" in his present mood.

When here last week, Daviscourt stated that he felt he was bound for a championship, at least; that things were finally breaking his way and that if nothing happened to mar the tenor of his way, that he would hurl a challenge at Joe Stecher, the world's champion, the latter part of the winter season, in an attempt to crown his successes with a glorious victory over the Nebraska and set himself up as the world's standard-bearer.

Further word from Londos was expected some time Monday by the promoter and he hopes to be able to announce during the day that the match is closed for November 9.

He confidently believes that he can bring pressure to bear finally to get the Greek here on a reasonable basis.

WEST POINT BREAKS WITH SYRACUSE

West Point, N. Y., November 1.—(AP)—Authorities at the military academy here issued a statement tonight confirming the announcement in New York of temporary break in athletic relations between the army and Syracuse. The announcement, similar to that given out at Syracuse, declared that while the "situation involved no difficulties which could not be satisfactorily adjusted in time," it was deemed advisable to "temporarily suspend athletic contracts."

Chancellor Charles W. Flint, of Syracuse, invited Brigadier General Merle B. Stewart, superintendent of the military academy, to discuss the situation with him after the Army-Syracuse football game on October 10, in which five players were hurt and another, Quarterback Baysinger, who later resigned from the Syracuse squad, was banished from the game for slugging Referee Schwartz.

The players most seriously injured, "Whippet" Carr, Syracuse flash and high-point cover of the east up to last Saturday, and Trappell, star of the Army backfield, have been unable to play since. Carr, who suffered torn ligaments in his knee, probably is out for the remainder of the season. Trappell was carried from the game with severe head injuries, but is expected to return to the regular lineup next week.

Governor Invited To Attend Game

Richmond, Va., November 1.—(AP)—Governor Thomas G. McLeod of South Carolina was invited to attend the football game here next Saturday between Virginia Polytechnic Institute and the University of South Carolina. It was learned today. Governor Harry F. Byrd of Virginia telegraphed the executive, inviting him and his party to accompany him to the game.

Jack Ordinary

New York, November 1.—The New York state athletic commission looks upon Jack Dempsey as just an ordinary heavyweight. It will give him a license whenever he asks for it, but will not approve of a return bout between the champion and Gene Tunney.

The commission, after hounding Dempsey for several years in an effort to make him fight Harry Wills, now has decided that Jack is not even logical challenger for the heavyweight title.

Jack Sharkey, of Boston, having filed the first challenge, probably will be named logical contender after the six months championship expires.

ENGLISH TAX ON RACE BETS IS ENFORCED

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Copyright, 1932, for The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

London, November 1.—Chancellor Winston Churchill's scheme to increase government revenue through taxation on betting is being tried today. The event marks a new era in the history of horse racing and also constituted a new wrangle in taxation.

The tax scheme, proposed by the chancellor of the exchequer and adopted by parliament, provides that every bookmaker or individual who takes bets on horse races must have a stamp on the ticket he hands out to the bettor in turn for the placing of his bets.

On the other hand, the man who places a bet on a horse and loses, pays the same as the man who bets and wins. This factor is causing much of the uproar of opposition against the taxation among the rank and file of Englishmen.

All the bookmakers must take out a certificate which they must pay for and obtain from the customs authorities. Special police inspectors and a crew of constables have been assigned to supervise and safeguard the tax. The bookies say they will kill the tax by enforcing it to the letter, but they are largely occupied in concocting schemes to charge off the payment against their clients.

Martin Will Return To Tornado Lineup For Vandy Battle

Tom Angley Expected to Be Much Better by Saturday—Scrimmage Against Formations of Commodores Will Begin on Tech Flats Today.

BY CARTER BARRON.
THE Golden Tornado, returned to Tech flats from a brilliant but not quite triumphant march on the garrison of Rockne at South Bend last Saturday, has begun the grind for resumption of conference relations in preparation for its tilt with the Commodores of Vanderbilt at home next Saturday.

And the Golden Tornado that swings into action at Tech flats next Saturday should be the classiest Tornado seen in action this year. It will boast its "Sunday-go-to-meeting" lineup, what with Firpo Martin on the very verge of recovery from an exceptionally severe "charley-hoss," and Captain Pool back in his central fortress.

Tom Angley, of course, might still be mentioned as one of the boys laboring under the stigma of illness, but Tom played a good game at South Bend, and his touch of malaria is rapidly diminishing in force and damage. He is almost a sure starter against the Commodores.

Serimmage Series.
Today will mark the beginning of the Vanderbilt formations as relayed through the gridiron mimes of Hank Bjorkman. "The Black Devils" have been well schooled in the Vanderbilt defensive and offensive tactics and are ready to teach the varsity all they know about how, and how not, to go about beating the next Saturday visitors.

Monday afternoon the lightest work-out that has been staged this year was held on the Flats by the returned warriors.

Coach Alexander had found quite a peeve in the fact that the Techsters failed to get under and return the Notre Dame kickoff in the most approved fashion, and so he took the class through this department thoroughly Monday.

The kickoff lesson was followed by the routine light workout. Calisthenics began the session. After the kick-off practice, the squad went through a good-sized signal practice and topped the afternoon off with a couple of laps around the track.

NEW STADIUM AT GEORGIA U. IS ASSURED

Athens, Ga., November 1.—(AP)—A stadium to take care of athletic events of the University of Georgia was practically assured here today when a subcommittee of the State College of Agriculture and the Prudential committee of the university to confer with L. W. Robert & Co., Atlanta, and E. L. Griggs, of the university engineering department, relative to the location of such a structure.

It is expected that following this conference plans will be developed for actual building to begin. It is planned to erect a structure sufficiently large to care for any event on Georgia's schedule.

Other members of the subcommittee are: H. J. Rowe, secretary; J. J. Connor, J. E. Hayes, Harry Hodgson and Marcus McWhorter.

Oakhurst Beats Norcross Squad

The Oakhurst Hurricane and the Norcross Aces fought a close gridiron battle Monday, the Aces losing 6-0.

The playing of Boswell and Jackson proved best for the Hurricane, while Flint, Barnes and Smith showed considerable ability in their juvenile football cavorting.

Bulldogs After

Following the tilt with Vandy will come the franks with Georgia, an annual classic in Georgia football. The Bulldogs will furnish real opposition for the Techsters, as will Vandy for that matter, but the Tech squad has emerged from the underdog position regarding this tilt that it had at the beginning of the season and is expected in several quarters to administer the Athenians a licking.

INSTALLMENT XXXVIII.

AN ENTICING PICTURE.

Notwithstanding a second protest from Dorinda, Kitty left the compartment and Bryant followed. Chad lingered outside of the threshold, his bright head thrust around the door he held ajar.

"I'll take them back to the baggage car," he said confidentially, "and we'll see if we can howl louder than Freckles. I'm almost sure we can. Anyway, I'm going to find out. Freckles is getting a little tired. And, children—his faunlike face grinned at them impishly—"something tells me that for several days there has been a drop of gall in the honey—a little rift within the lute. Kiss and make up. That you may have ample opportunity to do so, I am locking the door on the outside. I will return anon, which in this instance means an hour or two."

David sprang toward him at risk to the injured ribs, but they heard the turn of the key with Chad's final words and its withdrawal from the lock.

"The little wretch! I'll make him pay for this!" Dorinda cried, her darkened face twisting with anger.

David sat down beside the couch and picked up a newspaper.

"How about a truce till our final decision," he suggested. "Let's get even with Chad by not letting him annoy us. Have you read this newspaper yet?"

"No." He could see that she was striving for self-control.

"Then I'll run through the headlines for you, and we'll see what's happening to other folks. I'm no platform reader, but I can manage to give you the news."

Chad, returning three-quarters of an hour later, in a somewhat contrite frame of mind, found a pleasant domestic scene awaiting him. The bride had fallen asleep, and the bridegroom, slightly hoarse but still very much in the ring, was reading in low and soothing tones the latest quotations of the Chicago stock exchange.

"I've read them half a dozen times," he admitted when released; he slipped out of the stateroom and joined Chad in the vestibule. "Didn't dare to stop for fear she'd wake up. Parker said it would do her a lot of good if she could snatch a nap on the journey."

Chad nodded, inwardly relieved. As usual, his improved spirits found expression in a fountain of words.

"We had a great contest out in the baggage car, with the train crew as judges," he told David, as the two walked back to the latter's stateroom.

"The general idea was to outhowl Dorry's pup, and of course we all did that, so there wasn't much excitement. But we discovered that Jim could look more like the pup than the pup looked like himself. By jove, if we had put Jim in the crate we could hardly have told them apart. We tried to, of course, and some of the crew helped us; but there wasn't room and Jim didn't lend himself properly to the experiment. Still, the effort was worth while."

"After that," he went on with unctuous, "Kitty nipped my ankle better than any dog had ever done it, though a lot of dogs have practiced on me. It was all quite a treat for the trainmen," he ended with a relish.

"They haven't much pleasure in their lives, poor devils."

"It must have been," David grimly agreed. So they couldn't even take a journey without making an exhibition of themselves on the train. However, he was glad to infer that Bryant's spirits had revived. Chad read his expression and smiled sunnily.

"The long, long day is over," he quoted. "We'll be in Grandon in twenty minutes, admirably watched by half the populace as we get off the train. There's to be an ambulance for Dorry at the station, isn't there? And a stretcher for us to get her out?"

"We won't need any stretcher," David said shortly. "I shall carry her, of course."

Chad nodded again.

"You think of everything," he admitted. "That will look better. But how about your arm?"

"Damn!" said David.

He had quite forgotten his arm. That took some doing, too. It had been aching all day.

"There will be a doctor and nurse at the station with the ambulance," he stily told Chad. "They'll see to everything."

The loungers in the Grandon station felt repaid for their long wait when they saw the town's model young man at the head of his bride's stretcher, supporting with his uninjured hand his share of the light burden, while the doctor and nurse and Bryant bore the rest. Indeed, the spectacle was so moving that friends who had withheld judgment on his marriage, and others who had strongly expressed judgment, crowded one another in their efforts to greet him. He smiled at them understandingly, and Dorinda, whose congested face was covered by a veil, listened with a twisted smile to his cheerful replies to sympathetic inquiries. He got into the ambulance with the patient and the new nurse and sat in the doctor's seat as Dorinda's feet, while she surprised and slightly resentful gentleman hung precariously on the ambulance step. At the house the little band of Dorinda's servants was waiting in the hall, and the task of getting the stretcher upstairs and putting the new Mrs. Goddard to bed was accomplished under the interested eyes of Annie, the maid; Kate, the English cook, who efficiently helped in the transfer, and even Johnny, the outdoor boy.

"It's all so unnecessary," the patient protested. "I was perfectly able to dress for the journey and to get off the train with a little help, and I didn't need an ambulance any more than I need wings. I really don't need a nurse, either," she gloomily continued. "I'm perfectly all right, and I shall be as good as new in a day or two."

"Of course you will," Dr. Warren soothingly assured her. "But in the meantime the long journey was very trying, and Dr. Parker was right to take every precaution. Be good and stay in your room for a day or two of complete rest, and then you can do anything you like."

The members of the Butterflies parted from their hostess immediately at the urgent suggestion of the new nurse, whose name was revealed as Allen.

"Mrs. Goddard has had a hard day," she severely reminded them, "and she needs complete rest."

"Something told me," Chad regretfully put it as he followed the procession downstairs, "that we wouldn't be expected to stay for dinner. But I suppose we can refresh ourselves at the sideboard on our way out, can't we, Goddard?"

David escorted the guests to the dining room, gloomily telling himself that he felt like a cat in a strange garret. The picture of the third floor back in Mrs. Kemp's boarding house swung enticingly before him. From Chad's gossip at the hospital he had gathered that Mrs. Kemp missed him. Forgetting the matter of the four muffins she daily referred to him with a mother's interest. His nostalgia was a physical sensation, affecting the pit of his stomach.

To Annie, who showed a determination to keep a steadfast eye on the decanters while the Butterflies were near the sideboard, he gave his first order as master of the house.

"Ask Kate to send up a big plate of sandwiches, please," he suggested. "She can make them of anything she has."

He was rewarded by the immediate enthusiasm of his hearers.

"I always said Goddard must have some redeeming quality," Chad proudly pointed out, "and here it is. It proves my theory that if we observe any one long enough—" When the sandwiches came Goddard left them to the triumvirate, whose funds, he knew, might not run to dinner. However, they would not mind this now. They would adjourn to Kitty's studio and smoke and talk half the night. In the meantime, he was actually glad they were here.

CORTAZ PRECISE AND SOLDIERLY DISPOSITION OF HIS SMALL FORCES WAS WORTHY A FAR VASTER STRUGGLE. HE LEFT NOTHING TO CHANCE. HE APPORTIONED THE NUMBER OF THE SOLDIERS CORRECTLY FOR THE OBJECTIVE THEY HAD. AND A BIG REWARD WAS OFFERED TO THE SOLDIER WHO FIRST LAID HANDS ON NARVAEZ. THE ENTIRE DISPOSITION OF NARVAEZ' FORCES WAS KNOWN TO CORTAZ FROM A DESERTER. AT A SIGNAL THE VALIANT FOLLOWERS OF CORTAZ SWARMED TO THE ASSAULT. EACH FLEW TO HIS APPOINTED TASK. CAPTAIN PIZARRO AND HIS MEN SEIZED NARVAEZ' ARTILLERY; OTHERS CUT THE SADDLE GIRTHS OF HIS HORSES. CAPTAIN SANDOVAL AND EIGHTY SOLDIERS RUSHED UP THE STEPS OF THE TEMPLE TO TAKE NARVAEZ. THEY MET WITH A STUBBORN RESISTANCE UNTIL A FIRE-BRAND SET THE ROOF IN FLAMES. NARVAEZ HAD AN EYE KNOCKED OUT BY A SPEAR AND WAS SPEEDILY CAPTURED. GLAD SHOUTS OF VICTORY FILLED THE AIR MINGLING THE NAME OF CORTAZ WITH THAT OF THE KING.

THE VICTORY WAS OVERWHELMINGLY COMPLETE. CORTAZ NOW OFFERED THE FOLLOWERS OF NARVAEZ AN OPPORTUNITY TO ENROLL UNDER HIS BANNER. ALMOST AS A UNIT, THESE MEN SWORE ALLEGIANCE TO THE VICTOR AND STEPPED UNDER HIS BANNER. THIS STRUGGLE, SMALL AS IT WAS IN NUMBERS ENGAGED, INFLUENCED WORLD HISTORY. THE VICTORY WAS WON MAY 29, 1520, AND MARKED AN EPOCH IN THE FORTUNES OF CORTAZ.

CORTAZ HAD STAKED EVERYTHING ON THIS VENTURE AND FORTUNE HAD SMILED ON HER FAVORITE SON. AT A TIME WHEN HIS FORTUNES LOOKED IRRETRIEVABLY LOST HIS MEN HAD STOOD BY HIM AND, UNDER HIS GREAT LEADERSHIP, HAD SWIFT TO SEEMINGLY IMPOSSIBLE VICTORY THAT LEFT THE VALIANT CORTAZ MASTER OF A NEW FLEET, A NEW ARMY AND VAST STORES OF MUNITIONS. Keeping Your Schoolgirl Complexion

The Folly Of using just "any good soap" on your face

The kind beauty experts use themselves and how used

A SOAP may be good for any number of things, yet not be at all suited to the skin. The only kind of soap to use on your face is a soap made basically for that purpose. A good complexion is too priceless for experiment.

Before Palmolive came, women were told, "use no soap on your face." All soaps then were judged too harsh.

Then came this famous beauty creation. A soap made by experts in beauty of rare cosmetic oils—and made solely for one purpose: to safeguard the complexion. A soap that changed the beauty methods of the world.

Leading skin authorities urge it. It has brought natural skin loveliness to more women than any other method known. In your own interest, use it according to the following rule for one week. Note the improvement your complexion shows:

Nature's rule to "Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion"

Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge, if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away. Just do this and keep your skin soft and lovely—wrinkles will be less a problem as the years advance.

Get Real Palmolive

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same as Palmolive.

It costs but 10c the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Then note what an amazing difference one week makes. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois 2124

How I Dress My Hair

By Edna Wallace Hopper

The thousands who see me daily on the stage wonder at my beautiful hair. It is wavy, glossy and abundant. Nearly everyone thinks that some wonderful hair dresser gives it daily care.

Not so—I'm too busy for that. I never go to a hair dresser, have never had a Marcel wave. I simply apply twice weekly a hair dress which great experts made for me. It is not sticky, not greasy. Before they made it I never dreamed a liquid could do so much. Now all toilet counters supply it as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c.

Nothing else I know gives a girl or woman so much added loveliness at once. No one can resist it when she knows. My guarantee is enclosed with every bottle, so it costs you nothing if it doesn't please. Go try it at my expense.

Charles Dickens had the right idea

"My other piece of advice, Copperfield," said Micawber, "you know annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure nineteen pounds and nineteen shillings. Result: Happiness! Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure twenty pounds and six pence. Result: Misery, 'the blossom is blighted, the leaf is withered, in short, you are forever floored, as I am.'"

—CHARLES DICKENS.

CHARLES DICKENS knew how to write about the real problems of real people. That is why his fame endures. Real happiness consists neither in great riches nor poverty.

Twelve cents a year more outgo than income and Micawber was "floored." His sad case shows the evils of the lack of business policy in running the home.

'Silence' Star Given Ovation By Audience at Fine Drama

Atlanta theatergoers might still be waiting for the last act of "Silence," which opened last night at the Forthright theater, if James Cagney had not walked away after the first act, calling and in the midst of the greatest ovation ever accorded a stock player in Atlanta.

An audience that was a tiny bit bored at the beginning of the heavy melodrama, then awed with the adroitness of each character, suddenly was awakened by the drama, the great human appeal, the tremendous playing of the leading man, and threw themselves into the drama to the greatest bit of dramatic work it has been the privilege of this writer ever to witness.

Not that this writer else in the cryptic, absorbing drama did not do full justice to their roles—not at all. Everyone played as if inspired. It was a theme that enveloped Cagney, however, and whose work could not but have been inspired. Second only to the leading man came Jeanne Devaux, leading woman, and if her wonderful work was not overshadowed by Cagney, it might well have been termed among the greatest things she ever did here.

Audience Wept Openly.

In a dual role, living, acting and being two characters, Miss Devaux left an impression that can't be erased upon an audience that wept audibly at frequent intervals. One cannot forget, either, the waves of applause which were hers only.

Alan Devitt played in his usual fine appealing way, and Gas Forthright, with a better role than he has had in some time, will live in the memories of all those who heard and saw. Rhon Dwyer, pretty singing charmer in a fitting, rather humorously constructed wedding garment, was as fine an actor as a Bowers bride as she can be in any role. Miss Shuler's role was light this week. Jack Mulhall, Lawrence Keating and Joseph Eggenston, the latter new men, played well in minor roles, and the fine work of the entire cast, an Atlanta, made a good impression in the part of a bogus priest.

Amusements

The Rialto.

"The Great Gatsby" is here. Paramount's latest production was shown for the first time at the Rialto theater Monday and was hailed as one of the finest dramas to reach us this season, by all odds.

In it, Warner Baxter blossoms out as an actor of depth and feeling. The title role which he enacts is truly an amazing one. Gatsby, a poor boy who has scaled the heights by accepting aid from unscrupulous parties, and who lives but for one thing—the love of a weak-minded society girl, is made to feel the heights by accepting aid from unscrupulous parties, and who lives but for one thing—the love of a weak-minded society girl.

Howard Theater.

Jean LaFitte, buccanier, lover and seducer, forms the main reason for "The Eagle of the Sea" at the Howard theater. The story is nothing to shout over as far as originality is concerned, but the production is so good that it is not so long ago by the same director. That really tells nothing for the stories of both pictures consisted of the high seas and the rescue of the girl who had been abducted, the brave pirate who defies his men for the girl, causing the crew to mutiny, and the final happy union of the bold, bad pirate and the sweet, soulful maid.

Ricardo Cortez of the flashing eyes makes a very convincing "Eagle of the Sea," and Florence Vidor opposite him is just sufficiently sweet and sufficiently innocent to convince. Andre Aronson, that delightful comedian of "So This is Paris," portrays the role of the fool in a manner that equals his former performance.

On the stage "Minstrel Memories" is one of the best produced of the kind, and the Howard footlights in a long, long while. Some delightfully new comedy and whole reams of good singing are the outstanding features. Leading in

New York, November 1.—(P)—The cotton market was quiet today and comparatively narrow fluctuations were generally attributed to the evening-up of accounts in preparation for the holiday tomorrow. January contracts sold off from 12.72 at the opening to 12.63 and closed at 12.67, the general market closing steady, net unchanged to 1 point lower.

The market opened at an advance of 3 to 7 points in response to relatively better business in cotton goods both in the domestic markets and in Lancashire, and further trade buying, believed to be partly for foreign account.

The initial advance to 12.64 for December and 12.67 for March, met some southern selling, however, while there were some commitments for January, realizing, and prices turned easier during mid-day.

Offerings Light.

December sold off from 12.52, and March to 12.55, net declines of about 5 to 7 points, but offerings were light and the market later stiffened up on reports of a first crop basis in the east. The real run of cotton advanced to about 5 to 10 points from the lowest.

The New Orleans market was closed, which probably helped to explain the smaller volume of business, while local traders appeared to find nothing in the day's news to indicate that the market was overvalued.

Both the New Orleans market was closed, which probably helped to explain the smaller volume of business, while local traders appeared to find nothing in the day's news to indicate that the market was overvalued.

The Day in Finance

New York, November 1.—Trading in stocks was very quiet today, customers' rooms of stock exchange houses being closed, indicating a pre-election shifting of stocks was completed last week with many people extending their vacation. The market was in a position to know what the company has done and expects to do with its new telephone are confident of the future. Competition from Radio of America is expected to be held up by the company's peeling traders.

Some of the shrewdest stock market traders in Wall street are going to buy stock if the market declines on the outcome of tomorrow's election. In such quarters it is pointed out that the election will be a referendum on the changes in the senate or congress until the session begins December 1927, a date so far off that it will make little or no change in the real value of the stock market for the immediate future.

If nothing sensational develops from the election, speculative Wall street will begin to discount the quarterly dividend meeting to be held by General Motors a week from his coming Thursday.

The day's $50 to $195 announced today at the price of France cars was not as much as bears on motor shares predicted.

Rails Fail to Recover.

Trading on the stock exchange during the month closed ran 40,212,000 shares. Of this total 34,737,000 shares were industrials and 5,475,000 rails. Predictions that rails were to recover their lost market leadership have not as yet materialized. Holders of railway shares, however, spent a more comfortable October than those holding industrials. From the high of 104.21 in the average price of 25 rails on October 1, there was a decline to 92.55 on November 20, with the closing price of the month 96.18. This meant an extreme decline for the month of 7.66 points with the net loss for the month 4.15 points. For 25 industrials there was a decline from the month's high of 176.15 to 160.80 with the closing price of 160.80, a decline of 15.35 points with the net loss 10.61.

There has been speculation in railway shares based on merger and rumors of the plan to acquire the investment class. This is what has happened in England. Speculation in English railway shares has disappeared and now the annual price fluctuation of these stocks is no greater than the annual price fluctuation of the very best first mortgage bonds of railroads. In England railway shares are purchased for the income return. In this country investors have bought bonds for income return and investment. During the war industrial stocks in this country took leadership of the stock market away from rails and as far as can now be seen that leadership will continue.

NEW ORLEANS MARKET CLOSED FOR HOLIDAY

New Orleans, November 1.—New Orleans cotton market was closed today because of All Saints' day.

NEW ENGINE PLACED AT SANDERSVILLE

Sandersville, Ga., November 1.—(Special).—The city of Sandersville placed in service today a new Diesel oil engine at the electric plant. This engine is direct coupled to a 200-K. V. generator and burns crude oil. Officials state the new outfit will effect a saving of $7,000 per annum in fuel alone and will dispense with the services of three firemen.

In addition to supplying Sandersville with electric power, the plant also supplies the city of Tennesse, three miles distant. The local ginners, which has two sets of gins operated by two local ginners, are using 2,300 volts, is being supplied with current by the municipal plant.

With most of the foreign markets closed in observance of All Saints' day, trading in the foreign exchanges was quiet with quotations generally holding firm. Demand sterling was

400 Mix With Chicago MILLIONAIRE'S WIFE MAKES BOW WITH HOBBY Masses at Insult Theater

Washington, November 1.—(AP)—An American destroyer has been ordered from Bluefields, Nicaragua, to Ceiba, Honduras, to protect American lives and property there.

The destroyer was asked for by last week's report that a number of the penitentiary there had combined with revolutionaries and seized the town, temporarily ousting the federal forces. While the trouble in Ceiba has subsided since control reverted to federal hands, the uncertainty of the situation, in the consul's opinion, made it desirable to have an American naval craft there to insure protection for foreigners in the event of revolutionary uprisings in the near future.

FOOD AND DANCE AS FOOD SHOW BEGINS

Thousands attended the opening of the sixth annual food show at the auditorium Monday and Tuesday nights. They inspected all of over 50 booths of Atlanta and Georgia food distributors. They were entertained by excellently rendered music, and they were satisfied, for the 1926 edition of the food show had fulfilled every advance promise of being the biggest and best exposition of its kind ever held in Atlanta.

A record attendance for the opening day was set, according to V. E. Morgan, secretary-manager of the show. Tuesday's program is filled with entertaining and instructive features, with the high light coming Tuesday night with the real wedding to be performed on the stage of the auditorium while thousands of visitors look on.

The booth of the home economics classes of the Atlanta high schools is attracting wide attention. Here demonstrations are being made on cooking, baking and other domestic arts that would benefit the most efficient of housewives.

The Atlanta Pure Milk League also is holding a large percentage of interest with the home economics classes and the purity of the product being distributed under the direction of the league.

ORDERED TO CANAL ZONE, LIEUTENANT HASTENS WEDDING

Orders to report for duty in the Panama Canal zone served to hasten the wedding of Lieutenant R. B. Davidson, for several years military instructor at Georgia Tech, and Miss Vivian Alexander Walters, of Emory university, which took place Sunday in Shady Dale, the home of Lieutenant Walters.

The wedding ceremony had been made for the wedding but due to the unexpected orders the plans were changed.

They returned to Atlanta Sunday, where they will spend the week before leaving for New York, from which place they will sail for Panama on December 2. Miss Walters was formerly Miss Vivian Alexander, of Blakely.

The committee was appointed by Albert J. Beveridge, former senator of Indiana, who is chairman of the national committee.

FATHER OF ATLANTAN DIES IN COLORADO

News was received in Atlanta Monday of the death of E. Van Dine, of Colorado Springs, Colo. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. H. W. Brown, of Atlanta; Mrs. Judge Douglas of Jacksonville, and a son, Carl Van Dine.

Mr. Van Dine was one of the pioneer developers of Florida, being especially prominent in transportation. He was an Odd Fellow and took an active part in the work of that organization. His wife, Mrs. Van Dine, was born in Georgia several years ago. During the latter years of his life, Mr. Van Dine was interested in mining and assisted in the development of properties in the western states, it is said.

Bullock Fair Opens.
Statesboro, Ga., November 1.—(Special)—The gates of the Bullock fair were opened here today. All available space in the agricultural department has been taken and some applications were turned down.

New and novel features have been added to the program that has been announced. Indications are that there will be large crowds attending the fair. Tuesday has been decided upon as the day for school children, and special rates are to be granted to them. Saturday has been set aside for the colored school children.

BY MAURICE MERMEY.

Chicago, November 1.—The "400" mixed with some of Chicago's 3,000,000 at the Studebaker theater Monday night as the wife of Samuel Insull, the public utilities magnate, made her public bow with her hobby, the repertoire theater company.

Mrs. Insull, although her husband leased the theater for her and she can do with it what she will, judiciously refrained from sidling in with an "uplift-theater" movement or "highbrow" drama.

When the curtain rose for "The Runaway Road," a many-act drama by Mrs. Gretchen Damrosch Flineter, daughter of Walter Damrosch, the dean of American conductors, the Insulls and the Medys and the others of Chicago's upper crust occupied boxes, showing that the event was one for society editors.

It was a coincidence that the Insull name should blazon forth in electric on the eve of the election which the public utilities magnate seems to have greatly influenced. Furthermore, the theater and the election both set him back a pretty penny.

Plays Repentant Wife.
Mrs. Insull who was known as Gladys Wallis on the stage, showed how repentant a wife can be in the first act and the opening of the second, she left her Maine husband who was running for congress and in the third act she was with (of course) her stenographer. But she rushes back into his arms before the final curtain and all's well that ends that way.

Applause greeted her when she made her entrance; she was cheered when she hurried for a seaside resort in France (between acts), and when she answered the curtain calls, the cheers were loud and long.

It was a personal triumph for the woman who decided to do something with the time which hung heavily upon her. As organizer, producer, star and generalissimo of the repertoire organization, Mrs. Insull has taken her place beside Mary Garden, that other celebrity whose name is a household word and whose deeds have been amply rewarded.

The thought which gave birth to the idea of the Studebaker theater was to bring good drama to Chicago at popular prices. Top price on week-day nights is $2.50 with an additional 50 cents tacked on for Saturday night.

"The Runaway Road" will have an indefinite run. Included in the cast are some able players such as Louis D'Arcy, who starred as "Chief" in "Seventh Heaven"; Helen Strickland, who was prominently cast in "Ar Mrs. Beane"; and the New York theater guide's play of life in an English boarding house; June Elvidge, Joseph McManus, Margie La Rubia, a London artist, and Ideline Marcell, who has appeared in opera.

The play is Mrs. Flineter's first of full length. She has written several short stories and one-act plays.

A chance for southern forest owners is seen in the warning the government is giving to the textile industry of the world regarding the declining supply of logwood and persimmon trees necessary for shades. No satisfactory substitutes either native or foreign for these two woods in the making of shades have been found. All waste in use of the woods is warned against. North Georgians can profitably grow more such trees.

The interstate commerce commission finds the value of ratemaking of the Birmingham, Columbus & St. Andrews railroad is $228,100, as of 1917, and final value of the railroad, as of the Birmingham, Selma and Mobile railroad is $600,000, as of 1918.

1,000 COTTON COST STUDIES ARE MADE

Washington, D. C., November 1.—(Special)—The tariff commission says 1,000 cotton cost studies have been made by its experts sent into the cotton belt and it expects to have the most comprehensive survey ever made ready for issuance about December 1.

It seeks to show accurately the average cost of producing cotton in a thousand areas throughout the southern belt and it expects to have the most comprehensive survey ever made ready for issuance about December 1.

The bureau of agricultural economics reports cotton prices for week ending October 29 were steadier with a slight advance. Average of middling in 10 markets was up 16 points for the week, closing at 12.08 compared with 18.70 corresponding date in 1925.

Exports for week were 41,140 bales greater than same week of 1925. For three months past northern spinners took 68,746 bales more and southern spinners took 11,140 bales more for the same months of 1925. Eastern mills are buying on low market and collectively warehousing reserves at New Bedford, Mass.
